BOTH under the Permanent Settlement Regulations and Act X of 1859 it was left entirely to the discretion of the landlord to deal with the non-occupancy-raiyat, who is none other than the tenant-at will. But the relations between the landlord and non-occupancy-raiyat are materially altered by this Bill. Nothing will prevent the non-occupancy-raiyat from acquiring the occupancy-right, and, as already observed he will get the benefit of the legal presumption of a settled raiyat, if he can manage to scatter a few seeds once upon a plot of ground; then when he will be first let in he will be liable to pay such rent as may be agreed on between himself and his landlord, but no enhancement will be allowed except by registered agreement, and even when an agreement may be tendered by the landlord to the raiyat, the latter may refuse it, and the former will then be driven to the necessity of instituting a suit to eject him. The Court shall then determine what rent is fair and equitable for the holding, and if the raiyat agrees to pay the rent so determined, the landlord, under order of Court, shall be bound to give him a lease for five years, and if before the termination of the lease the raiyat shall have acquired a right of occupancy, he will be entitled to all the rights and privileges of an occupancy-raiyat. The non-occupancy-raiyat will thus be one in name; the landlords present right to deal with him at his discretion is entirely taken away, while the freedom of contract is disallowed and the landlord is compelled to give a judicial lease for five years. I should observe that in consequence of the introduction of the judicial lease, the original provisions regarding compensation for disturbance have been omitted. These provisions embodied a new-fangled idea not known in this country, and would, if retained, have proved a new apple of discord. But the substitution of the judicial lease for five years involves a great injustice to the landlord, who is tied hand and foot by the Court in a matter in which he has always enjoyed perfect independence of action. The raiyat, in whose favour the judicial lease is ordered, may be most obstreperous and tribulent, may by his bad advice be tainting the whole flock around him, and may thus prove most mischievous, not to say that the landlord, if he settles the land with another raiyat, may get better rent and perhaps better security for payment of rent. But the judicial lease will give him no such option or advantage. I cannot help thinking that the provisions relating to non-occupancy-raiyats involved a further invasion of the proprietary rights of the landlord, and that in favor of a class of tenants who are not attached to the soil, and have, therefore, no manner of moral claim upon the consideration of the landlord.

Sub-letting and sub-raiyats.

ONE principal defect of the Bill, as introduced, was that, while it seriously curtailed the rights and privileges of the zamíndár, it did practically little for the good of the boná-fide cultivator, whose labour constituted the wealth of the country and fed a whole host of proprietors and sub-proprietors including the Government, as the representative of the public. The position of the middleman had been greatly strengthened, while the sub-raiyats, usually the actual cultivators of the soil, were left to the tender mercies of the middlemen. The invidiousness of this condition was fully realized by the Committee, and they proposed various devices for bettering the position of the sub-raiyats. Accordingly, restrictions have been proposed in the Bill on sub-letting, but I doubt whether these provisions will work. In the first place, if an occupancy-raiyat sub-lets more than half his holding, he shall on registration of the same be converted into a tenure-holder. Considering the decidedly advantageous position of the tenure-holder, this will operate as a premium on sub-letting instead of as a repressive measure. In the second place, if an occupancy-raiyat sub-lets, his sub-lease shall not be valid for a term exceeding seven years, and this provision will have a retrospective effect. Surely this will be no loss to the sub-lessor, for the shorter the lease, the greater his gain. In the third place, the landlord of a sub-raiyat shall not, in the case of a registered lease, be entitled to recover rent more than fifty per cent. of what he himself pays, and in any other case not more than twenty-five per cent. I do not understand how this rule will work, where there is a long chain of middlemen, for instance in Backergunge, where there are thirteen grades of middlemen. Will each middleman have the right to claim from his sub-raiyat fifty per cent. in excess of what he pays to his own landlord? What would then be the position of the last link in the chain —of the men who immediately cultivates? And in the fourth place, a sub-raiyat shall not be liable to be ejected by the landlord except at the end of an agricultural year and after a written notice to quit, to be served not less than six months before the expiration of that year. My own impression is that there will be frequent disputes between the superior raiyat and the sub-raiyat as to whether the former has sub-let more than half his holding, and the result will be either silent suffering on the part of the sub-raiyat or frequent litigation. Then, as far as I can judge, the limitation of rent under section 62 will apply only in such cases in which a superior raiyat may sub-let more than half his holding; he will, therefore, studiously keep himself under this limit and thus avoid the clutches of the law. Furthermore, it will be nobody's interest to bring to Court the superior raiyat contravening the law, for no penalty attaches to breach of law. The superior raiyat will make it a point not to let his land to any raiyat who will not accept his own terms, and when a sub-raiyat accepts those terms, he will not seek the benefit of the law; another raiyat, a third party, may wish to get the land on the terms prescribed by law, but he will have no locus standi, if he be not admitted by the superior raiyat. So that the new provisions restricting sub-letting will either prove a dead-letter or give rise to endless litigation.

Improvements.

THE chapter on improvements introduces an alteration in the relations between the landlord and tenant consistent with neither the existing law nor custom. At present improvements are generally made by the landlords, and where they are made by tenants, they are effected with the consent and sanction of the landlord, but this chapter declares that (1) where a raiyat holds at a fixed rent his landlord shall not be entitled to prevent him from making any improvement in respect of his holding, (2) where a raiyat has an occupancy-right he shall have the prior right to make the improvement unless it affects another holding or other holdings under the same landlord, and (3) where a non-occupancy-raiyat desires that a certain improvement should be made in his holding, he shall serve a notice on the landlord calling upon him to make the improvement within a reasonable time, and if the landlord is unable or neglects to comply with his request, he may make the improvement himself. The whole theory of these provisions ignore the proprietary right of the landlord, and assigns to the Collector the task of deciding as to who has the right to make improvements. If public policy requires that the raiyat should be encouraged to make improvements, surely the first option ought to be given to the landlord to effect them. From an economic point of view, the landlord, having larger capital, is in a better position to carry out improvements, but no facilities are offered to him for this purpose. Even a return in the shape of increased rent is not assured to him for his outlay of capital on improvements, for it will be in the discretion of the Court not to allow an enhancement, if the court thinks that the land cannot bear enhanced rent. The inevitable result of these rules, I am afraid, will be to throw back all improvements. The soundness of the policy, which expects improvements from those who have not the means to make them, and to deter those who can, is unintelligible to me. I suggested that facilities should be given to the landlord to acquire land for purposes of agricultural experiments, model-farms, &c., but my proposals were not accepted. I was referred to an amendment of the Land Acquisition Act.

Management of joint estates.

THE Bill gives power to the District Judge, on the application of the Collector or of any person interested, even a squatter, to deprive co-owners of an estate or tenure of the right of management thereof, if it appears to him that there has ensued or is likely to ensue (a) inconvenience to the public, or (b) injury to private rights. I shall take the last point first. I at once admit that hardships and harassment may be caused to raiyats in consequence of disputes among co-owners and the absence of a common manager, but this point has been met by the Committee in the provisions made for deposit of rent. Section 73, clause (c), says that a tenant may deposit rent when the rent is payable to sharers jointly, and the tenant is unable to obtain the joint receipt of these co-sharers for the money, when no person has been empowered to receive rent in their behalf. Besides, the co-sharers cannot apply for distraint or sue for enhanced rent unless they make the application or institute the suit jointly or through a common manager. It will be thus seen that the Bill effectually removes all reasonable complaints of raiyats who are tenants of joint estates. As for inconvenience to the public from the joint management of estates, I confess, I do not clearly understand it. If, for instance, the co-parceners default in the payment of revenue, their estates are liable to sale; if they transgress law or fail to comply with public requisitions, their responsibility is easily traceable under the operation of the Bengal Registration Act, and they are liable to punishment. It is not therefore clear why they should be deprived of the management of their own property because the Collector or Judge thinks that it causes "inconvenience to the public". I submit it would be contrary to sound public policy to remove all incentives to exertion and improvement from landed proprietors and capitalists by delegating the management of their property to others on pleas which have no existence in fact.

Record-of-rights, settlement of rents, tables of rates and record of proprietor's private lands.

THE chapters relating to these subjects are doubtless in accordance with the modern ideas of land administration in periodically settled India, but as far as Bengal is concerned, the rights and interest of different parties are generally well defined, and where there might be disputes between landlords and tenants in matters dealt with in these chapters, common sense would suggest that the application of the law should be left to the self-interest of the parties concerned. But the essence of these chapters is that while liberty is accorded to both landlord and tenant to move the machinery provided in them, the Local Government is empowered to bring of its own motion the machinery into action. The application of the provisions contained in these chapters will, I fear, plunge the country into a flood of litigation, stir up the worst passions of both the landlord and the tenant, open a wide door to perjury and forgery, give rise to endless corruption among the subordinate amlah, and throw the agricultural population into a sea of trouble, expense and loss. This was the lesson taught by the Revenue Survey. Of course, when the parties will themselves apply for the enforcement of the provisions under notice, it will be their own lookout, but I do not see any good or valid reason why the Government should, without any application from the parties, step in and inflict upon the country the evils pointed out above. The work contemplated cannot, I fear, be accomplished in two or three generations to come, and for all this time will run the festering sore indicated above. If the record-of-rights were confined to those cases in which auction-purchasers at revenue or summary sales may not receive jamabandí papers for their guidance, if the settlement of rents were made applicable to those cases in which the raiyats might combine and withhold payment of rent and agrarian outrages might take place, and if the record of proprietor's private lands were limited to those cases in which the proprietor himself made the application, in all these cases, on the application of parties, it would be reasonable and fair; but to give the wide scope which has been given in these chapters by vesting the Government with unlimited discretion is not only not warranted by the necessities of the case, but will be followed by evils which will be highly detrimental to the best interests, peace and happiness of the agricultural population. As regards tables of rates, the enquiries which have been made on the subject have made it clear that in most parts of the country they are not practicable, that there are so many variations in rates of rent, sometimes one hundred and odd in a village, owing to various causes, historical, personal, economical and social, that it is hopeless to discover any typical or uniform rate, or what was formerly called Pargana rate in any given area. And yet power is taken by the Local Government to order preparation of tables of rates for special areas and to charge landlords and tenants with the cost of this work, though they may not in the least benefit by it. In the same way the expenses which may be incurred by enforcing the provisions relating to record-of-rights and settlement of rents, will be cast upon the landlords and tenants, though no application had been made by them. Thus a new cess will be imposed upon the land for purposes of proceedings which may do more harm than good to the landed classes.

As regards the record of proprietor's private lands which go by the name of khámár, the definition given is wholly opposed to what is contained in the Permanent Settlement Regulations and excludes all waste lands. Section 138 declares:

> Section 138.—(1) The Revenue-officer shall record as a proprietor's private land—
> (a) land which is proved to have been cultivated as khámár, zírat, sír, nij, nij-jot, or kamat by the proprietor himself with his own stock or by his own servants or by hired labour for twelve continuous years immediately before the passing of this Act, and
> (b) cultivated land which is recognized by village custom as proprietor's khámár, zírat, sír, nij, nij-jot, or kamat.
> (2) In determining whether any other land ought to be recorded as a proprietor's private land the officer shall have regard to local custom and to the question whether the land was before the second day of March, 1883, specifically let as proprietor's private land; but shall presume that land is not a proprietor's private land until the contrary is shown.
> (3) If any question arises in a Civil Court as to whether land is or is not a proprietor's private land, the Court shall have regard to the rules laid down in this section for the guidance of Revenue-officers.

Section 37 of Regulation VIII of 1793 thus describes khámár lands:—

Section 37, Regulation VIII of 1793. The above exception [exclusion of lakhiraj lands from the general assessment], however, is not meant to include the Malikanah lands in Bihár, or the nankar, khámár, nij-jot, and other private lands of the zamíndárs and independent talukdárs, or other actual proprietors of land in Bengal and Mednípur, &c.

It will be seen by comparing the language of the Regulation with that of the Bill that no such condition as cultivation for twelve continuous years was attached to the zamíndár's khámár lands under the old law. As for waste lands, it is notorious that they were given to the zamíndár to enable him to recoup the loss which inevitably fell upon him under the crushing assessment of the Permanent Settlement.

Distraint.

THE law of distraint is generally regarded as an important and potential auxiliary in realising rent. In Bihár, I understand, it is largely resorted to. The essence of the present law of distraint is, that the process is a sharp and quick remedy, and that the whole responsibility rests upon the landlord who is liable to heavy penalties in case of abuse of power. Under the Bill distraint is made a process of Court; it is clogged with various restrictions, and by the time the order may be executed the crops may be off the field. The procedure is so much elaborated that it will no longer prove the prompt remedy, which the distraint law ought to be, while the expense and harassment will be such as to compel the landlord to forego it altogether. I am inclined to think that the law of distraint, as provided in the Bill, will remain a dead-letter, and thus the only facility which the landlord possesses at present for realising his rent, quickly, will be taken away from him.

Judicial Procedure.

I NEED not repeat that the Government has over and over promised to simplify the procedure for recovery of rent. It has recognised its obligation in this respect from the time of the Permanent Settlement to this day. One of the primary objects of the present Bill from its first inception has avowedly been the simplification of the procedure for the realisation of rent, and the Committee in deliberating upon the subject fully admitted it, but the practical result of their deliberations, I am constrained to say, is disappointing. I submitted three schemes on the subject: (1) the Patní Procedure, (2) the Certificate Procedure now applicable to Government and Wards Estates, and (3) a modification of the present procedure. I set out below the details of the third scheme.

The zamíndár or rent-receiver in instituting a suit for arrear of rent should make out a primá facie case by filing necessary papers such as jama-wásil-bákí papers and counterfoils of receipts and giving necessary evidence.

The Court should then issue summons. In order to obviate the usual complaint of non-service of summons, I would suggest a provision to the following effect:—

"The summons shall be ordinarily served personally or by a registered postal cover. If for any reason the summons cannot be served personally on the defendant, it shall be affixed at his usual place of residence in the village in which the land is situate, or within five miles thereof. The notice may be served by affixing it at the mál-kacharí of such land, or on the land for which the arrear is due or other conspicuous place thereon, or at the village chauki or chowpal, or at some other conspicuous place in the village in which the land is situate. An attestation of service should be taken from the village chaukídár, village mandal, or some two respectable residents of the village, or rural sub-registrar, as the case may be."

The order to prevent abuse, at least two of the abovementioned processes should be observed in every case; and with this safeguard the plea of non-service of summons should not be accepted by the Court as a good ground for re-opening or retrying a case which has been decided ex parte.

The summons should contain a notice that unless the defendant appears within one week from date of service, the Court shall pass a decree for the amount claimed and order immediate execution. The Court should be required to examine the defendant within eight days from the date he enters appearance and give notice of the day appointed to the plaintiff. The defendant should be required to file all documentary proofs and bring his witnesses in support of his pleas on the day of his examination. If the nature of the case admits of the immediate disposal of the suit, the Court should do so; or if the case be contested, it should on that day settle the issues in the presence of both parties and fix another day for hearing and final determination of the suit, not exceeding a fortnight from the date of examination of the defendant.

As regards execution, if the defaulter be a tenure-holder or occupancy-raiyat, his tenure or holding should be sold in execution. If he be a non-occupancy-raiyat, he should be evicted.

No appeal should be admitted unless the amount decreed was deposited. The rent-receiver should be allowed to take out the deposit on giving proper security,

This scheme seemed to enlist the sympathy of many of my honourable colleagues in the Committee, but, to my misfortune, the majority have not been able to accept it. They say—

> For ourselves we must confess that, after the most anxious consideration of the various schemes which have been propounded for shortening and simplifying the procedure in rent-suits, we are unable to suggest anything of importance in this direction which would not involve a serious risk of failure of justice. In particular, while we are anxious to facilitate the service of summons and the proof of such service, we are unwilling to give any presumption of law against an absent defendant except on adequate proof of such service.

The Committee have, however, introduced the following new provisions :—

> We have, however, with a view to avoiding, as far as possible, the complication and delay which arise from questions as to the landlord's title being raised in rent-suits, made an important amendment in the section (164) which requires a tenant admitting that rent is due from him, but pleading that it is due not to the plaintiff but to a third person, to pay the amount into Court. Our object is to force the issue of disputed title to be raised separately and independently of the rent-suit, and we have therefore provided that the Court shall, on the money being paid in, cause notice of the payment to be served on the third person, and unless he, within three months, institutes a separate suit against the plaintiff and obtains an order restraining the payment of the money, it will be paid out to the plaintiff on his application.

A much more efficacious remedy, in my humble opinion, would have been, as I pointed out in Committee, to declare forfeiture of right of the raiyat in case his disclaimer of the title of his landlord was disproved in Court. The modifications proposed by the Committee would only multiply wheel within wheel, a title-suit in an arrear-suit, and thus vastly delay the realization of rent instead of facilitating it.

The Committee propose to give power to the High Court to make modifications in the ordinary procedure, if necessary, in applying it to the trial of rent-suits. This, to my mind, is tantamount to shirking the question. Surely the legislature, which has enacted the code of procedure, is competent to modify it for the purpose of expediting the trial of rent-suits.

I do hope that when the Committee meet in November next, they will be able to see their way to an efficacious simplification of the present procedure for the realisation of rent, which is a crying grievance with the landlords, and in consequence of which they are not unfrequently heavy losers in meeting the Government demand of the revenue and the cesses. If there is a consensus of opinion on any one point connected with the rent-law, it is on this, and it would be a scandal if, while the whole law is being overhauled, no substantial aid be given to the landlords to realize their just dues.

Freedom of contract.

UNDER this Bill, freedom of contract between the landlord and the tenant is practically abolished. The matters which are placed beyond the reach of contract are thus specified by the Committee :—

(a) The acquisition of the status of settled raiyat and of the occupancy-right (sections 24, 25 and 26).

(b) The incidents of the occupancy-right specified in section 31.
(c) The occupancy-raiyat's right to demand a reduction of rent under section 51.
(d) The right of either landlord or tenant to demand a commutation of a produce-rent under section 53.
(e) The protection afforded by the Bill to a non-occupancy-raiyat or an under-raiyat from ejectment except on specified grounds (sections 58, 59, 60 and 63).
(f) The right of a tenant to a reduction of rent on account of a diminution of the area of his holding (section 66).
(g) The right of a raiyat to make improvements and claim compensation for them (sections 88, 89, 90 and 93).
(h) The protection afforded to all tenants against ejectment except in execution of a decree (section 98).

I have, in my remarks on the introduction of the Bill, strongly protested against this retrograde move. The Permanent Settlement Regulations not only recognized but openly encouraged freedom of contract, and Act X of 1859 did the same. I cannot conceive that if the raiyat can be fairly considered a free agent in mortgaging or selling his hearth and home or his agricultural land, in disposing of the produce of his field, or engaging his labour and fulfilling a thousand other obligations of every-day life, why he should be considered incompetent to enter into contract with his landlord. I would strongly urge the re-consideration of this question.

Civil Courts and Revenue-officers.

THE jurisdiction under the Bill is divided between the Civil Court and the Revenue-officer. The large powers which have been conferred upon the Revenue-officer at the instance of the Bengal Government are, I hope I am mistaken, evidently intended to reduce the land administration of Bengal to the same dead-level system which prevails in Northern India, and which has so notoriously hampered the action of capital and clogged the springs of industry in that part of the country. Whether I refer to the provisions for the commutation of produce-rents into money-payments, to record-of-rights and settlement of rents, to preparation of tables of rates, to superintendence of contracts between the landlord and the tenant, the fixing of standard poles for measurement, the preparation of price-lists, or the like, the Revenue-officer has been made the fulcrum on which no small portion of the structure of the Bill rests. I would not object if the Revenue-officer were made only an executive or administrative officer, but as he has been vested with judicial functions, the objection becomes serious. Nothing, I conceive, can be more injurious to the interests of justice than a system which will place a judicial officer at the beck and nod of the Executive Government. On this point, I would reproduce the enlightened and wise remarks of Lord Cornwallis contained in the preamble to Regulation. II of 1793:

All questions between the Government and the landholders respecting the assessment and collection of the public revenue, and disputed claims between the latter and their raiyats (tenants), have hitherto been cognizable in the Courts of Maal Adawlut, or Revenue Courts. The collectors of revenue preside in these Courts as judges, and an appeal lies from their decision to the Board of Revenue, and from the decrees of that Board to the Governor General in Council in the Department of Revenue. The proprietors can never consider the privileges which have been conferred upon them as secure, whilst the Revenue-officers are vested with these judicial powers. Exclusive of the objections arising to these Courts from their irregular, summary, and often ex parte proceedings, and from the collectors being obliged to suspend the exercise of their judicial functions whenever they interfere with their financial duties, it is obvious that, if the regulations for assessing and collecting the public revenue are infringed, the Revenue-officers themselves must be the aggressors, and that individuals who have been wronged by them in one capacity can never hope to obtain redress from them in another. Their financial occupations equally disqualify them for administering the laws between the proprietors of land and their tenants. Other security must be given to landed property and to the rights attached to it, before the desired improvements in agriculture can be expected to be effected. Government must divest itself of the power of infringing, in its executive capacity, the rights and privileges which, as exercising the legislative authority, it has conferred on the landholders. The Revenue-officers must be deprived of their judicial powers. All financial claims of the public, when disputed under the Regulations must be subjected to the cognizance of Courts of Judicature, superintended by judges who, from their official situations and the nature of their trusts, shall not only be wholly uninterested in the result of their decisions, but bound to decide impartially between the public and the proprietors of land, and also between the latter and their tenants. The collectors of the revenue must not only be divested of the powers deciding upon their own acts, but rendered amenable for them to the Courts of Judicature, and collect the public dues, subject to a personal prosecution for every exaction exceeding the amount which they are authorized to demand on behalf of the public, and for every deviation from the regulations prescribed for the collection of it. No power will then exist in the country by which the rights vested in the landlords by the Regulations can be infringed, or the value of landed property affected. Land must, in consequence, become the most desirable of all property, and the industry of the people will be directed to those improvements in agriculture, which are as essential to their own welfare as to the prosperity of the State.

The broad views which were expressed by the Government in 1793 apply with ten-fold force in 1884.

Patní tenures.

THE zamíndárs, not without reason, object to the incorporation of the Patní law in this Bill. They hold that every word of that law has during the last 65 years received an accepted and authoritative meaning; that it is well understood by the zamíndárs, the patnídár, the Court and the amlah; that to modernise the language will be to disturb the recollections and traditions of more than three scores of years, and that it is therefore highly desirable to leave the Patní law as it is, text and construction, on the principle of letting well alone. I concur in this opinion and would leave out the Patní chapter from this Bill.

I have hastily drawn up my principal objections to the leading principles of the Bill. I have not had time to comment on details. I propose to bring them forward when the Committee meet in November next.

KRISTODÁS PÁL.

The 14th March, 1884.

Memorandum of dissent from the finding of the majority of the Select Committee on certain provisions of the proposed Tenancy Bill.

1. Chapter IV of the revised Bill provides that a raiyat holding his land at a fixed rate of rent shall be—

(a) subject to the same provisions with respect to transfer, succession, &c., as a tenure-holder; and

(b) liable to be ejected from his holding on the ground of his having broken the terms of a written contract between him and his landlord on breach of which he is liable to be ejected.

The occupancy-raiyat claiming to hold his land at a fixed rate of rent is, in respect of his holding, placed in a more advantageous position than the ordinary occupancy-raiyat—

(a) by the landlord being debarred from pre-empting should the raiyat transfer his holding to a third party;

(b) in not being liable to be ejected should he use his land in such a way as to render it unfit for the purposes of his tenancy.

The majority of the Committee are of opinion that the incidents attached to an occupancy-holding the rent of which is fixed should be different from the incidents attached to an ordinary occupancy-holding; from this I dissent.

If the landlord is to be allowed the right to pre-empt in the one case, he should be allowed to do so in the other; if the raiyat is to be subject to eviction for rendering his land unfit for the purposes of the tenancy in the one case, he should be liable to be evicted in the other.

Every argument that can be adduced in favour of its being permitted in the one case would apply equally in the other.

Pre-emption is, I believe, an off-shoot of Muhammadan law; when the right to pre-empt is claimed among Hindús in Bihár, it is governed by custom.

The right to pre-empt under English law is, I believe, embodied in the provisions of this Bill for the first time, and only with the object of affording the landlord the means of protecting himself against persons who might purchase occupancy-rights with the intention of injuring him.

The landlord will be put to as great inconvenience by a hostile purchaser in the one case as he will be in the other; the same with a farm destroyed. It will be as useless to him in the one case as it will be in the other.

The effect of these provisions, coupled with Chapter VIII, will be ruinous to the landlord.

Every time a landlord elects to exercise his right to pre-empt, a title to hold at fixed rates will be set up

Every time a raiyat transfers his holding as a holding at fixed rates, or a transferee anticipating pre-emption takes measures to evade the law, even though the landlord does not wish to pre-empt, he will be compelled to contest the transfer, for fear his not contesting it at once may be taken as an admission of the transferee's right to hold at fixed rates in perpetuity.

Had the Committee seen its way to accepting my amendments and confined the operation of this chapter to holdings under mukarrarí pattá or raiyats whose rights had been declared by a decree of Court, although the landlords' rights would not have been restored to them in their entirety, the mischievous effects of encouraging persons to attempt to evade the law by setting up the presumption would have been avoided.

2. Chapter V.—Restrictions on sub-letting.

In respect to the right mode of treating the subject of sub-letting, I am at variance, nearly on all points, with the majority of the Committee.

I do not think there is any necessity to place restrictions on sub-letting with the sole object of discouraging it.

I believe the conversion of the occupancy-raiyat who sub-lets into a tenure-holder will be detrimental to the best interests of the landlords.

I believe it necessary to bring the system under some control, partly with a view to protect the occupancy-raiyat, but mainly with a view to protect the poorest class of cultivators, the raiyat's raiyats.

The power to sub-let is a necessity to the raiyat, possibly of even greater importance to him than the power to transfer.

It enables the occupancy-raiyat to tide over his temporary embarrassments.

It enables the labouring classes, who might not otherwise succeed in securing land to assist in the support of their families, to acquire it.

It is legal, and the practice has hitherto been under no sort of restriction, and under no sort of restrictions will it ever be abandoned.

As long as there exists a class of people craving for the possession of land and poorer than the people in possession, or a class who can put the land to more profitable use than the persons who at present hold it, or as long as the line which divides an usufructuary mortgage from a sub-lease remains undefined, sub-letting will be practised.

The sub-lessees should be protected, and while there is yet time the system should be brought under some sort of control.

The matter may soon force itself on the attention of the Government in such a way as to make the shirking of the question an impossibility.

3. Chapter V.—On enhancement.

Under the provisions of the draft Bill submitted to the Select Committee for report, the landlord might enter into an amicable arrangement with his tenant to receive an enhanced rent up to six annas in the rupee on former rates, provided the enhanced rent did not exceed one-fifth the value of the gross produce of the land in staple crops.

He might enhance under suit, on the grounds that the rate paid for the land was below the prevailing rate in the neighbourhood, on the ground that the productive powers of the land had increased otherwise than through the agency of the tenant, and also on account of a permanent rise in prices, provided the enhanced rents did not exceed one-fifth the value of the produce in staple crops, and provided it should in no instance exceed double the previous rent.

Both in the instance of voluntary enhancement and enhancement under suit, the enhanced rent was to hold good for a term of ten years. Under the Bill as revised by the Select Committee, enhancement under contract is in no instance to exceed four annas in the rupee.

Below two annas or up to two annas it shall hold good for seven years, above two annas for fifteen years.

Judicial enhancement by reason of the holding being held at a rate below the rate prevailing in the neighbourhood may be made up to fifty per cent. increase on the former rate, and on account of a permanent increase in prices up to twenty-five per cent.

In any case decided on its merits, whether enhanced or not, the rate shall hold good for fifteen years.

The one-fifth limit has been abandoned in both instances.

Legal enhancement has, I admit, been made very much easier than it is under the present law; but I humbly submit that the omission of a limit which was admitted on all hands to be unascertainable is not sufficient reason for placing the restrictions on enhancement that the majority of the Committee have thought it necessary to place upon it, either in the way of reducing the limit or increasing the term.

It is to be presumed that tenants with fixity of tenure secured to them will only agree to an enhanced rent out of Court, when they know that the landlord by going to Court might get a very much higher rate decreed.

I do not approve of the policy which drives both landlords and tenants to appeal to a Court of law in matters which they can decide very much better for themselves.

In the matter of voluntary enhancement, it was only necessary to declare that enhancement under contract should be under registered agreement, and that the tenant in agreeing to it acted as a free agent.

If it was necessary to put a limit to the amount, the term should have been left to contract.

The fifteen-year limit being adopted in both instances, the landlord will exact the last farthing of what is due to him: we permit no compromise.

It is but fair to the Committee to say that I was alone in the desire to see the arbitrary limit on enhancement on account of the holding being held at a rate below the rent prevailing in the neighbourhood omitted; but I still think it would have been better to have left the matter to the discretion of the Courts.

The Courts have been given the power to make the enhancement gradual over a period of five years. They should be unfettered on both points.

4. Chapter VIII.—On the right of an occupancy-raiyat to hold at fixed rates.

Section 64 (1), Ditto (2), Ditto (3). The first allows a raiyat whose rents have not been changed from the time of the Permanent Settlement to hold his land at that rent in perpetuity.

The second allows it to be presumed, until the contrary is proved, that a raiyat who has held his land at one rent for 20 years previous to the introduction of the suit has held it at that rent from the time of the Permanent Settlement.

The third makes the above rule applicable to commuted rents also.

In my notes filed with the rest of the papers on the Bill, I recorded my dissent with the provisions of these sections as they then stood in the Bill; the alterations now made are alterations in form, not in substance.

During our discussions in Committee no arguments were submitted, no attempt was made to justify their being originally embodied in Act X of 1859, none in reply to the assertion that they were an infringement on the terms of the Permanent Settlement, none to induce me to alter the opinion expressed by me in my notes.

The pleas urged for their retention in the present Bill were, that they represented the present law, that no case had been made out to induce the Committee to alter the present law, and that it is more difficult for the raiyat to prove his right to hold at fixed rates, than it is for the landlord to prove how, when and on what terms the raiyat was let into possession of the land.

We urged that the Permanent Settlement and its concomitant Regulations never intended that any class of raiyats other than mukarrarídárs and istimrárdárs should hold their lands at one fixed, unalterable rate in perpetuity.

That it never contemplated the creation of any "privileged" class among occupancy-raiyats.

That Act X of 1859, in creating a privileged class among occupancy-raiyats, trenched upon the proprietary rights of the landlords, and, in securing to the raiyats a right to hold their lands at a fixed rent in perpetuity, it reduced the proprietors to the position of annuitants on their own estates.

In declaring that the presumption shall run from twenty years previous to the introduction of the suit instead of from a fixed date it became a constantly accruing title.

That the privilege being a valuable one, one that it is to the interest of the raiyat to acquire in the future and to the interest of the landlord to prevent his acquiring, it was detrimental to the best interests of both to retain it in the Bill in its present form: it caused constant friction.

At the same time as I denied the justice of its enactments in Act X of 1859, I admitted that it would be harsh and unjust to cancel rights that had grown up under the operation of the present law.

To obviate all appearance of acting unjustly to raiyats who had secured such rights I proposed that the presumption should run from 20 years previous to the introduction of the Act, instead of, as it now does, 20 years previous to the bringing of the suit. I humbly submit that, had the Committee adopted this suggestion, raiyats who have secured to themselves the right to hold at fixed rates would have been secured in their titles, and the first instalment of justice would have been meted out to the zamíndárs. In a Bill which is admittedly being enacted to define the rights of landlord and tenant in the future, which is being passed to restore to the raiyat rights he is supposed to have been deprived of by the legislation of the past or that he has forfeited by his own carelessness or by his own acts, it is but fair to the landlord to restore to him anything that the loose legislation of the past may have deprived him of.

If it is found impossible to return to him what he has been deprived of in the past, he should at least be protected in the future.

Under the terms of the Permanent Settlement, only mukarrarídárs and istimrárdárs were allowed to hold at fixed rates; not so occupancy-raiyats.

Previous to Act X of 1859 any person claiming a right to hold at fixed rates or rents was obliged to prove his title to do so from a date 12 years antecedent to the decennial settlement, his title was otherwise not complete; that is to say, his title was not dependent on anything contained in the Permanent Settlement, but on the acts of the zamíndárs themselves previous to the settlement.

At the time of the Permanent Settlement the cultivators of the soil were divided into three classes—mukarrarídárs or tenure-holders, resident-raiyats with prescriptive rights of occupancy and non-resident-raiyats or tenants-at-will. Act X of 1859 was the first attempt made during 66 years to give non-resident-raiyats rights of occupancy in the soil; in their case, at any rate, the right to hold at fixed rates cannot be founded on anything contained in the terms of the Permanent Settlement, and the landlord should not be called upon to rebut the presumption: the onus of proving the right should be cast on the raiyat.

At the time of the Permanent Settlement, and previous to Act X of 1859, all raiyats with rights of occupancy were treated alike in the matter of rents—"all" were expected to pay the prevailing rate.

It is difficult to find out from a reference to the published papers relating to the passing of Act X of 1859 what led up to the embodiment of these provisions in that Act.

In the draft Bill published in 1857, it only says "hereditary raiyats holding at fixed rates of rent are entitled to receive pattás at those rates", but no mention is made of the 20 years presumption afterwards embodied in the Act of 1859.

Had the Bill of 1857 not been amended, the onus of proving his right to hold at fixed rates would still have been cast on the raiyat claiming it.

In all the published criticisms on this draft Act, Mr. Sconce alone fully discusses the raiyat's right to hold at fixed rates, but he founds the right upon the higher and more intelligible ground that "the Permanent Settlement was not one-sided—permanent for the landlord and not permanent for the tenant"; but he errs in drawing this inference mainly from the provisions of sections 51 and 60 of Regulation VIII of 1793. On a reference to these sections it will be found that the former refers to taluqs, and from the operation of the latter the Province of Bihár was exempted.

I would submit that, if we are to maintain the present law as against the landlord, simply because it is the present law, we are not justified in going beyond the present law in favour of the raiyat as we have done in many instances.

In reference to the declaration often made that it is easier for the landlord to rebut the presumption than for the raiyat to prove his right, I would only repeat that the persons who make this assertion have no conception of the difficulties in the way of the landlord; that it is easier for any given number of tenants to prove their landlord's handwriting than for the landlord to prove the execution of documents executed by men who could not write; and that all the old Regulations made it compulsory on the landlord to execute a document in favour of the raiyat. None made it compulsory on the raiyat to execute one in favour of the landlord.

The present law provides for cases in which the rent has always been paid in cash; under the present Bill, it is intended to go a step further and apply the rule to commuted rents.

Although I was in the unenviable position of sole dissentient on this point in Committee, I must still beg to be allowed to protest against this clause being made law.

It goes far beyond anything we are justified in enacting; it is equal to allowing every raiyat who formerly held at a grain-rent, and now holds at a cash-rent, to hold at one fixed, unalterable rent in the future.

Severely as these provisions bear on the landlords under the present law, they will bear ten times more severely on them in the future.

With the interchange of pattás, and kabúliyats made no longer necessary, the future is in the hands of the raiyat.

Useful as the powers to be given to the Local Governments under the Record-of-rights and Settlement of Rates Chapters may be made in the future, with these provisions unaltered our Courts will be deluged with litigation and the zamíndárs ruined.

Their effect can only be minimized by confining their provisions to rents to be commuted in the future and fixing a date from which the presumption is to count.

Their effect on the transfer and pre-emption clauses I have already noted.

5. Chapter IX.—Sub-division of holding.

The Bill declares an occupancy-holding shall in the future be transferable, and rightly declares it shall only be transferable as a whole.

A transfer of a portion of a holding is declared void as against the landlord.

The right to transfer has not hitherto been among the legal incidents of an occupancy-holding: the Courts have times out of number declined to give a transferee a right to hold the land when purchased as against the will of the landlord. In spite of the uncertain tenure of the transferee we see rights of occupancy being sold under voluntary sales and sold under decrees of Court in every district in the province.

In some districts it has become so fixed, it has become so common in spite of its illegality, that the custom now overrides the law.

The prevalence of the custom in spite of its illegality is now forcing the Government to declare it valid.

It is now proposed to legalize the transfer of an entire holding, but to declare it illegal as against a landlord to transfer a portion of a holding.

To legalize the transfer of a portion of a holding would be bad policy—bad for the landlord, worse for the raiyat; but to declare the act of a raiyat void as against the landlord and legal as against himself is to permit a state of things to grow up gradually which will eventually force the Government to interfere and legalize proceedings which they now deprecate.

To allow it to be illegal as against the landlord and legal as against the raiyat will not prevent the raiyat transferring it—it will only depreciate the market-value of the holding.

As the raiyat's necessities arise, he will dispose of his holding piecemeal from the fact of its being invalid against his landlord possibly at one-half of its value.

There are three ways of preventing the raiyat disposing of his holding piecemeal, namely:—

to declare a transfer of a portion of a holding illegal as against both landlord and raiyat; to allow the landlord to treat the transfer as an abandonment of that portion;

to deem the raiyat to have broken a condition on breach of which he is, under the terms of an agreement between him and his landlord, liable to be ejected.

The last is the most drastic, and the one I advocated.

6. Chapter X.

Under this chapter the Local Government may, at the request of a landlord, at the request of a large number of raiyats or to avert a dispute, order a settlement to be made of the rents of the whole estate.

Under this chapter as it stands the rent-roll settled or ascertained of the estate must hold good for a period of 15 years after a settlement is made, provided nothing debarred the landlord applying for an enhancement.

(1) It would hold good in cases where the landlord applied for an enhancement, and the enhancement was allowed.

(2) It would apply in cases where his application was disallowed.

(3) It would apply where the landlord had a right to apply and did not.

(4) It would hold good in all cases where the settlement was made at the request of a number of raiyats.

(5) It would either compel the landlord to attempt to enhance the rents of all raiyats who were not parties to the application or to be debarred enhancing for 15 years.

(6) It applies to occupancy and non-occupancy-raiyats equally; it would therefore have this result, that it would at once give every non-occupancy-raiyat occupancy-rights.

(7) It will induce raiyats to demand a settlement in order to acquire rights they are not entitled to. It permits of no compromise.

The period should stand as it stood in the Bill, namely, 10 years.

It should only apply to cases in which the landlord applied for an enhancement or occupancy-raiyats had any dispute in reference to their rent.

A non-occupancy-raiyat should not be afforded the means of acquiring occupancy-rights under its shadow, or a most useful chapter will be turned into an instrument of oppression.

7. Chapter XV.—Incumbrances.

The last point on which I would wish to be allowed to record my dissent from the finding of the Committee is one of the utmost importance to the trader and also to the raiyat.

The Bill declares that a tenure, when sold under a decree of Court for arrears of rents, shall first be sold subject to registered incumbrances, but allows an occupancy-holding to be sold free from incumbrances.

The Bill certainly allows a person claiming to hold a lien on an occupancy-holding to protect his interests by paying up the arrears due and thereby to acquire a first mortgage; but this is not sufficient protection.

I do not agree with the Committee in thinking any distinction should be made between tenure-holders and occupancy-holdings.

Raiyats holding at fixed rates being subject to the same provisions as tenure-holders, will encourage litigation.

An attempt will be made to set aside the sales of occupancy-holdings by setting up the presumption to hold at fixed rates after sale.

Whether it will be the duty of the Court, the decree-holder, the debtor or the purchaser to enquire whether it is an ordinary occupancy-holding or an occupancy-holding at fixed rents that is brought to sale, or who will be responsible for any loss, should any occur, is not clear.

It was necessary to declare that the incumbrance to be protected was binding on the whole of the holding, not only on a portion of it, but nothing more.

In not affording the occupancy-raiyat this protection we injure his credit and force him to pay heavy interest where he might borrow on easier terms.

T. M. GIBBON.

Memorandum of dissent from the finding of the majority of the Select Committee on certain provisions of the proposed Tenancy Bill.

WHILE I concur generally with the majority of the Select Committee in accepting the provisions of the Bill as now revised, I think it right to add that in some particulars the interests of the tenants do not appear to me to be sufficiently protected. The Bill greatly facilitates the enhancement of rents, especially by the substitution of the simple ground of a rise in prices for the old rule which required proof of an increase in the value of the produce. While this great advantage has been given to the landlords, the check provided by section 75 (d)* of the original Bill has been taken away, the plea that the rate of rent paid by a raiyat is below the prevailing rate has been retained as a ground of enhancement, and the Bill provides no limitation whatever of the rent which a landlord may demand when a tenant (other than a settled raiyat) is first admitted to the occupation of land. Even in the case of a settled raiyat, the landlord may demand an increase of twenty-five per cent. on the rent previously paid. These sections put into the hands of landlords a powerful engine for enhancing rents up to the maximum amount which a tenant will agree to pay rather than give up the land. For, as agricultural holdings must, from time to time, fall into the hands of the landlords, and as the landlords are left free to let these out at almost any rental they may think fit to demand, it is evident that the prevailing rate will steadily increase, and that this rate will regulate the rents not only of tenants newly admitted to occupation, but of the general body of the tenantry. For this reason, the retention of the prevailing rate as a ground of enhancement appears to me to be fraught with serious danger, and I should be glad to see it eliminated from the Bill.

Similarly, I am of opinion that section 53 of the revised Bill does not sufficiently guard the interests of the tenant in cases in which the landlord applies for a commutation of produce-rents. The section ought to provide, first, that the money-rent shall not in any case exceed the rental at which the holding is entered in the landlord's road-cess returns: and, secondly, that if the commutation is based on the average value of the rent received by the landlord during the preceding ten years, a substantial deduction shall be made from such value in consideration of the whole risk of cultivation being taken by the raiyat. Provision was made for such a deduction in the draft Bill of the Rent Commission, and in the Bill submitted by the Government of Bengal.

The wording of section 96 of the Bill, relating to abandonment, seems to me likely to open the door to serious abuses. When a raiyat has been deprived of his holding under the plea of his having abandoned it, it is of very little use to authorize him to institute a suit for the recovery of possession. If this section is necessary at all, its operation should be confined to holdings in the possession of non-occupancy-raiyats. There is not the smallest reason for extending it to occupancy-holdings, as, in these cases, the landlord's rent is completely secured by his power of bringing the holding to sale for arrears.

H. J. REYNOLDS.

The 17th March, 1884.

* This clause declared that "the enhanced rent shall not in any case exceed one-fifth of the estimated average value of the gross produce of the land in staple crops, calculated at the price at which raiyats sell at harvest-time".

D. FITZPATRICK,

Secretary to the Government of India.

Memorandum of Dissent from the Finding of the Majority of the Select Committee on the proposed Bengal Tenancy Bill.

Principles of the Bill.

I would base my dissent to this Bill on the broad ground that it does not settle the land law of Bengal on a firmer, juster, or more satisfactory basis than it now stands on, and that it will neither keep the cultivation of the soil in the hands of a substantial peasantry able to withstand the vicissitudes of seasons, nor tend to promote the accumulation of wealth, the sound growth of credit, and the progress of agricultural improvements; also that while it fails to accomplish the only objects which in Lord Hartington's opinion justified the introduction of such a Bill, it at the same time involves great and entirely novel departures from both the ancient custom and the existing law of Bengal, a course which that very same authority has with the true instinct of statesmanship condemned as unadvisable.

Despatch, 17th August, 1882, paragraph 21.

Despatch, 17th August, 1882, paragraph 9.

I find it difficult to understand what are the principles on which Government proposes to change the present law of landlord and tenant. In the Statement of "Objects and Reasons" (which it is customary to send to the Members of the Council with every Bill) it is stated that Act X of 1859, though admittedly beneficial, was in some important points so unsuccessful that it had resulted in Bihár in rack-renting of raiyats and oppression by zamíndárs, and in Eastern Bengal in preventing zamíndárs from obtaining enhancements to which they were legally entitled and even in difficulty in recovering their legal rents. From this we may gather that the main objects of the Bill are to protect raiyats on one hand and on the other to facilitate the zamíndárs' collection of legal rents and their making legal enhancements of the same.

If it can be shown that the results of Act X of 1859 have really been such as Mr. Ilbert states (which, however, I would, as far as Bihár is concerned, most emphatically deny, and of which, I would here specially notice, no proof whatever has been shown,) then no landlord or raiyat could oppose equitable measures taken to attain what, as I above notice, appear to be the nominal objects of the proposed Bill, nor do I see that in any of their various memorials the zamíndárs have raised the slightest objection on these points.

Had the Bill adhered simply to these objects, all would have been well; but departing altogether from them, clauses of the most revolutionary character, and infringing strictly guaranteed rights have been introduced, which have created a great deal of unrest and mistrust in the minds of the zamíndárs. It is true that the Government of India have never said that they wish to deprive the landlords of their vested rights; on the contrary, they have always declared that they do not wish in any way to trench on the vested rights of landlords that were guaranteed to them at the time of the Permanent Settlement, but the result of the passing of this Bill would be practically to negative such declaration.

No legislation whose object it is to deprive one class of its vested rights (without giving that class any compensation) and to give those rights to another class, has, I think, as yet been passed in India, nor do I think that legislation of this sort is ever likely to be enacted. Some such theories have been advocated by certain advanced thinkers in England, but in India until this Bill appeared no such theories had been heard of, and even in England there is a marked difference of opinion on this point among the most advanced thinkers.

Notwithstanding that the Government of India have, as I before remarked, never officially said that they wish to do away with the Permanent Settlement, and that the Secretary of State in his letter is most distinct in declaring that he is against any legislation that is likely to trench on the vested rights of any class of the community. Notwithstanding this, the proposed Rent Bill has created an amount of ill-feeling and distrust never before excited in India by any Bill affecting the rights of the people, and the cause of such feeling is that, although these professions have been made by Government, still the most of the clauses of the proposed Bill are revolutionary and are directly against the principles on which we are supposed to legislate. The feeling to which I allude has of late been greatly aggravated and intensified by a memorandum that was published by the Government of Bengal on 5th January, 1884. I quote below a passage from this memorandum, and the principles contained in it are, I would suggest, quite enough to create distrust and ill-feeling in the mind of everybody interested in the Bill. The passage runs thus :—

"The Lieutenant-Governor then thought that, while it was well * * * * * * to have history on one's side, yet the decision of the question turned more on appeals to the requirements of the present * * * * * * than on historical researches. He therefore paid more attention to the practical character of the proposals made in the Bill than to their historical justification."

Apparently overlooking the fact that our rights as zamíndárs have been clearly defined and legislatively recorded at the time of the Permanent Settlement, the Lieutenant-Governor here implies that our rights, and I suppose the raiyats' rights too, are but indistinct in the haze of historical research, and that in consequence alléged present wants affecting those rights should be met by measures, framed not in accordance with the past guarantees of the Government of India, but in the light of views held by a present Local Government. On this ground, he has, it would seem, been biased by views formed with regard to what some consider to be present necessities, and has disregarded the zamíndárs' vested rights.

We the zamíndárs on the other hand hold that we are one of the classes most interested in this Bill, and that our rights naturally should not only be fully enquired into but protected.

It may be thought, though I do not for one moment admit it, that the landlords' rights are prejudicial to the interests of the people at large. If so, the matter ought boldly to be faced, and landlords be allowed "compensation for disturbance" and ordered to surrender their rights. But it is hardly fair to the zamíndárs that the letter of the Government of Bengal of September last (which it now seems did not exhaustively enter into the question of the landlords' rights, and which had great weight with the deliberations of the Select Committee) should ever have been put forward before that Committee as the result of an impartial enquiry, and that the able minute of the Chief Justice which fully entered into the legal aspects of the question should not have been published with the other official papers.

The zamíndárs as a body have objected to the Bill ever since it came out of the hands of the Rent Commission. Meetings were held in almost every district of Bihár and Bengal, and in all these meetings the revolutionary clauses were condemned, and it was the general opinion that the Bill was a wanton interference with the existing customs and the ancient land law of the country. Raja Siva Prasad in Council in March last correctly described what are the feelings of the landed proprietors, when he said that, "if such a Bill passes, it will shake the faith and confidence of the people."

Under this head I would only add that the general principles of this Bill, viz., the proposal to invest occupancy-raiyats with these rights in all fresh lands on the very day that such lands are settled with them, the restrictions that are for the first time proposed to be placed on the right of free contract in favour of the raiyats without giving any reciprocal advantage to the zamíndár, and the limit of 25 per cent. enhancement that is also for the first time proposed to be placed in a Bill, one of the primary objects of which is to give the landlord further facilities for the enhancement of his rents, can but be looked upon by the zamíndárs as not only a wanton digression from the recognized laws and customs of the country, but as a confiscation of their vested rights. The Bengal and Bihár zamíndárs have as a class been the most loyal of Her Majesty's subjects in India and trusting in the known good faith of the English Government they have always believed that no Government of India would wish or think of depriving them of their vested rights or of turning a deaf ear to their representations.

Under these circumstances the zamíndárs are naturally alarmed at the publication of such an official memorandum by the Bengal Government as that I have above quoted from, one which leads them to believe that the Government of Bengal has not thought fit to make a full enquiry into their rights before committing itself to the opinions expressed in its letter of September last.

I would ask what have the zamíndárs done to deserve this treatment? Are they really as rapacious and unscrupulous as the Government of Bengal thinks them to be? If so, where are the facts to show it? Have we got any statistics to show that it is the general custom in Bengal for the zamíndárs to change the lands of the tenants every twelfth year? Are there any statistics to show that the treatment of the non-occupancy raiyats is so very oppressive as to justify the introduction of such an idea as compensation for disturbances in our legislature, an idea which is entirely novel to the people of the country, and which was not even dreamt of by the ancient law-givers? Is there in fact any proof that rack-renting and oppression in Bihár is so common, as to call for the destruction of the proprietary rights?

A great number of official opinions have been published, but few or no statistics to show that the conduct of the zamíndárs is really so oppressive as described in the above-mentioned letter of the Bengal Government. Further I would ask, is there any ancient law to show that according to ancient custom the raiyats had occupancy-rights in all the village lands, and that the zamíndár had no proprietary rights in any lands except those that he cultivated himself?

I would now at more length record under different headings those points in connection with the proposed Bill as it left the hands of the Select Committee which lead me to dissent from it.

The Permanent Settlement.

Throughout the whole of the discussion of the Rent Bill it has always been officially declared that it is not the object of the Government to infringe on any of the rights that were guaranteed to the zamíndárs or raiyats at the time of the permanent settlement. On this point, therefore, the zamíndárs, the raiyats, and the Government are all at one. The question now to be decided is, what were these rights? On this point, however, there is a great difference of opinion, though I for one cannot make out how there can possibly be any difference of opinion on a well-defined question of this sort. The wording of the permanent settlement regulations is most clear, and they distinctly declare the zamíndárs to be the actual "proprietors of the soil" and not mere rent-receivers, as some people seem to imagine.

There are others who go beyond this, and hold that the zamíndárs as a class did not exist before the time of the permanent settlement, and that before this period they were mere collectors of rent for the Government. In answer to these, I enclose for publication translations of two* firmans granted by the Muhammadan Emperors to two of the oldest families in Bihár; one of these was granted to the family of Bhojepur or Doomraon, and the other to the family of Darbhangá; and these clearly show that at least some of the zamíndári families of Bihár were in existence not only before the time of the permanent settlement, but even before the establishment of the English Government in any part of India.

As regards the rights conferred on the zamíndárs by the permanent settlement, I cannot do better than quote a passage from the regulation itself. It runs thus:—

"The Governor General in Council declares to the zamíndárs, independent taluqdárs, and other actual proprietors of land, that no alteration will be made in the assessment which they have respectively engaged to pay, but that they and their heirs and lawful successors will be allowed to hold their estates at such assessment for ever. The Governor General trusts that the proprietors of land sensible of the benefits conferred upon them by the public assessment

* One firman has not been received from the Hon'ble the Maharaja.

being fixed for ever, will exert themselves in the cultivation of their lands under the certainty that they will enjoy exclusively the fruit of their own good management and industry. To discharge the revenues at the stipulated periods without delay or evasion, and to conduct themselves with good faith and moderation towards their dependent taluqdárs and raiyats, are duties at all times indispensably required from the proprietors of land, and a strict observance of these duties is more than ever incumbent upon them for the benefits which they will themselves derive from the orders now issued."

Sir John Shore in one of his minutes writes thus :—

"I consider the zamíndárs as proprietors of the soil, to the property of which they succeed by right of inheritance, according to the laws of their own religion, and that the sovereign cannot justly exercise the power of depriving them of the succession nor of altering it when there are any legal heirs; the privilege of disposing of the land by sale or mortgage is derived from this fundamental right, and was exercised by the zamíndárs before we acquired the Dewany."

These are the opinions of Lord Cornwallis and Sir John Shore, the actual framers of the Permanent Settlement, and both of them are emphatic in declaring the zamíndárs to be the "proprietors of the soil." These opinions, moreover, were endorsed by no less a personage than Pitt. Mr. Dundas, the President of the Board of Control, in a letter to Lord Cornwallis, says :—

"I thought it indispensably necessary that the measure should originate with the Board of Control, and likewise that I should induce Mr. Pitt to become my partner in the final consideration of so important and controverted a measure. He accordingly agreed to shut himself ud with me for ten days at Wimbledon and attend to that business only. Charles Grant stayep with us a great part of the time. After a most minute and attentive consideration of the whole subject, I had the satisfaction to find Mr. Pitt entirely of the same opinion with us. We therefore settled a despatch upon the ideas we had framed, and sent it down to the Court of Directors."

As regards the rights of the raiyats, I might simply mention that the rights that are now proposed to be given to them are very different from those that they enjoyed at the time of the Permanent Settlement. In fact, they had properly speaking no proprietary rights in the land at all. They could not transfer their holdings, nor is there anything in the regulations to show that the raiyats had the right to hold on at fixed rates without the consent of the zamíndár. There is besides nothing to show that the rate of rent was regulated by the value of rice, wheat, and some other cheap food crops, which, according to a late declaration of the Secretary of the Bengal Government, are the only "staple crops." I would here quote a passage from Sir John Shore on this subject :—

"It is, however, generally understood that the raiyats by long occupancy acquire a right of possession to the soil, and are not subject to be removed; but this right does not authorise them to sell or mortgage it, and it is so far distinct from a right of property. This like all other rights under a despotic Government is precarious. The zamíndárs, when an increase has been forced upon them, have exercised the right of demanding it from the raiyats. If we admit the property of the soil to be solely vested in the zamíndárs, we must exclude any acknowledgment of such rights in favour of the raiyats, except where they may acquire it from the proprietor.

"In every district throughout Bengal, where the license of exaction has not exceeded all rule, the rents of the land are regulated by known rates, and in some districts each village has its own. These rates are formed with respect to the produce of the land at so much per bigha; some lands produce two crops a year, some three; the more profitable articles, such as mulberry plant, betel-leaf, tobacco, and sugarcane, render the value of the land proportionably great. These rates must have been fixed upon a measurement of the land, and the settlement of Turymul may have furnished the basis of them. In the course of time cesses were superadded to that standard, and became included on a subsequent valuation, the rates varying with each succeeding measurement. When a measurement of the land takes place, the existing rates are confirmed and generally with some additions."

In this passage the definition of staple crops is not limited to rice and wheat and the other cheap food crops; on the other hand, it shows that in those days the value of the more valuable kinds of produce like tobacco and mulberry was taken into consideration.

Before concluding this subject I quote a passage from another high authority who lived immediately after the Permanent Settlement. I refer to Lord Metcalfe, who, as is well known, was no admirer of the Permanent Settlement, as is evident from the passage I quote below, but he also is of the opinion that the zamíndárs were vested with the proprietary rights in the soil by the Permanent Settlement :—

"I need not say that I am no advocate for the regulation proprietors of our creation. I consider their creation to have been an enormous error, which has not been attended by any benefit whatever; but having created them, and declared them to be proprietors, we gave them, I conceive, after the reservation of the Government revenue, all the rights of property that it was in our power to give, that is, all the rights that did not previously belong to others. We had no right to destroy the pre-existing property of others, in order to confer it on our new fangled proprietors; we could not legally or justly give them a single field which previously belonged to others; but we could and did give them the right of the Government in every field in their zamíndárí, and we superadded the full property in lands, not owned or occupied on a permanent tenure by others. Having done so, although we have a right, and are bound to protect the ancient cultivating proprietors and occupants in all their rights, whatever they were, and ought to be ashamed of ourselves for not having done so, we have no right to step in, between our proprietor and the cultivator of his own planting, on lands declared to be his own property, with a view to destroy the engagement which they have mutually entered into, and prescribe others of our own fashioning * * * * * * * * * I would let the regulation proprietor have all his just rights. It could never have been intended when we created proprietors that they were to be merely entitled to a percentage on the revenue. It was meant that they should be really proprietors, which they are and ought to be, in every case in which that would not affect the previous rights of others, but as we had no power, that is, no lawful power, to take away the rights of others, we have not given them one jot of those rights, and are bound to maintain the ancient proprietors and holders of permanent rights against those of our own creation."

In a disputed legal question of this sort, it would have been well if the opinions of the High Court Justices, the Advocate General, and the other law officers of the Government, and some of the leading lawyers of the country have been consulted. But in this matter, as in the matter of statistics, I find a remarkable want of information among the official papers that have been published. One of the zamíndár's chief stand-points is the Permanent Settlement, and on this point it was most necessary that the Select Committee should have the best legal opinions procurable. No such opinions have, however, been consulted.

Chapter III of Bill—Tenure-holders.

Tenure-holders represent but one portion of the proprietary interest in land, as distinguished from the raiyati interest. I do not see any special necessity for legislating on the present occasion for tenure-holders, properly so called. Their rights are pretty well ascertained, and as a class they at least are quite able to look after their own interests. I could understand the formal reproduction of the provisions of Act VIII of 1869, B.C., with respect to tenures and under-tenures, but I fail to perceive sufficient reason or justification for changes in the substantive law in this respect. In my opinion, the whole of Chapter III should be recast, the provisions of Regulation VIII of 1819 retained in their integrity, and the relevant provisions of the Bengal Council Act VIII of 1869 simply reproduced.

The injustice of substantive changes is very much enhanced by the direct and indirect promotion of certain occupancy raiyats (viz., those who sublet and those who possess more than 100 bighas) to the status of tenure-holders, as explained at length by my hon'ble colleague.

Chapter IV of Bill—Raiyats holding at fixed rates.

Whatever might have been the necessity felt by the zamíndárs for facilities in the collection of arrears of rent since the imposition of new Government cesses on lands, and however urgent the necessity felt by a certain class of landlords in Bengal proper for increased facilities as to enhancement of rents, I may say that the zamíndárs of Bengal and Bihár are entirely at one that they would much rather put up with existing inconveniences and hardships, than accept the gift of the proposed legislation. If however the law is to be changed, it is but fair and just that the novel provisions of Act X of 1859, which are admitted by the highest authorities to have worked wrongful loss to the zamíndárs, should be modified or repealed. The presumption arising in the tenants' favour from 20 years' holding at an uniform rate of rent may be said now to have worked out its object, as every tenant who cared for it, has had an opportunity for the last 25 years to insist upon the granting of receipts andto take care for their preservation. Such being the case, apart from any other facts, it would have been proper to extend the period of uniform payment which should give rise to the presumption. But the necessity for such a change is rendered more urgent by the fact that in its existing shape it works positive and unmerited loss to the zamíndár. The Hon'ble Rai Bahádár has in his dissent already called attention to the recorded opinions of the Hon'ble Mr. Reynolds in his memorandum, dated the 18th May, 1881. The same opinions have been recorded by Mr. Dampier, Senior Member of the Board of Revenue and President of the Rent Commission, in his note dated the 19th May, 1881, and although the Hon'ble Mr. Reynolds thought fit to change his mind, the arguments which were advanced by himself and by Mr. Dampier have not been refuted. Mr. Dampier condemns the retention of the presumption section not only on the ground already advanced by the Hon'ble Mr. Reynolds, that the real effect of such a statutory presumption has been not conservative but productive, creating "in the vast majority of instances new rights, instead of merely establishing those which already exist, but for the support of which full proof is not attainable," but also on the further ground of public policy that "the presumption amounts practically to a declaration that when an estate passes to a purchaser from a hostile vendor at a forced sale, in the majority of which cases, no zamíndárí papers are available to the purchaser, every tenant who has held without change of rents for 20 years shall acquire the right of permanent occupancy at a fixed rent." Mr. Dampier adds a further argument on the ground of public policy, that such a provision drives the landlords to institute enhancement suits every 20 years, "lest their rights should pass away sub-silentis."

Chapter V of Bill—Occupancy-raiyats.

In approaching this subject we must bear in mind the great distinction between the actual cultivator and the middleman. Whatever increases the prosperity of the agriculturist conduces to the prosperity of the nation, but the middleman whose prosperity is dependant on what he can squeeze out of the cultivator, is a useless member of society, who simply adds to the difficulties of the situation. Whatever tenderness is shown by the ancient custom of the country or the "official literature" of byegone generations, is limited to the cultivators of the soil and not to those who having gone into occupation of land for agricultural purposes, set themselves up as microscopic proprietors displaying within their limited spheres the quintessence of all the possible vices and abuses of the zamindárí system. If there is to be a radical change in the law, this is a class of men who ought to be excised from our agricultural system, as they are the greatest hindrance towards the rise of that "substantial peasantry able to withstand the vicissitudes of seasons" which it is desired to bring into existence. I am quite willing to recognize the necessity of allowing the validity of sub-letting in certain special cases, but beyond that limit I would not go. In all cases where the occupation of land was allowed for agricultural purposes, I would insist upon the right of occupancy being made conditional upon the bonáfide cultivation of the land by the tenant himself, or by hired labour, and I would not allow the transfer to any other than a resident cultivator. Two of my amendments proposed in Committee embraced this question. The one allowing the sub-letting of an entire holding in case of females, minors, &c., was adopted, but the other which would restrict the transfer to bonáfide resident cultivators was not carried.

It is a well established fact, that sub-letting has brought ruin upon the cultivator; and that middlemen have the most to answer with respect to the embarrassment of the agricultural situation, and that a raiyat holding direct under the zamíndár is in a much better position than the korfa or kalaut raiyat. In the face of this, it is simply a wanton aggravation of existing difficulties to raise occupancy-raiyats en masse to the status of tenure-holders and rent-receivers, and to afford facilities to other than cultivators to acquire by occupation or otherwise the right of occupancy. Taking for granted that the raiyat requires protection from the arbitrary act of zamíndárs who purposely shift them from land to land to prevent their acquiring a right of occupancy in any one given bit of land (a practice which I contend has not been proved), the Select Committee would create a presumption in the raiyat's favour (viz., that because they now hold land they must have held that land for 12 years) a presumption opposed in itself to the actual state of things in the agricultural population, as occupancy of land is daily changing owing to causes over which the zamíndár has no control. This presumption ignores the circumstances that there are vast areas of riparian land in these provinces, which are constantly the subject of alluvion and diluvion; that throughout the border lands of these provinces there is still in force an active process of reclamation from jungle; that in the interior districts the pressure of population upon the soil has led and is daily leading to the encroachment of cultivation upon waste and pasture lands; that the existence is notorious of a large number of paikasht cultivators, who try their chances all round without being attached to any particular locality; and that there are numerous cases in which old raiyats voluntarily relinquish their jotes owing to a diminution of the productive qualities of the soil, and other sufficient reasons. Taking all these circumstances into consideration, can it be said that a fair and reasonable judge, in the absence of any other evidence whatsoever affecting the probabilities of the case, could, from the mere fact of a tenant's holding a plot of land to-day, deduce, or much less feel himself bound to deduce, that the same tenant must have occupied the whole or at least a part of the same plot for the last 12 years?

With reference to the proposed presumption that all raiyats have occupancy-rights, I would here cite a few instances where I think it will be simply impossible for the zamíndár or thiccadar, though the raiyats have not got occupancy-rights, to rebut such a presumption.

1st.—In those cases where the landlord acquires possession by buying up the property at an enforced sale for Government revenue, the defaulting zamíndár, whose property is thus bought up, is naturally in the majority of such cases hostile to the man who has bought it, and so refuses to give up the papers of past years. How is a zamíndár in such cases to rebut the presumption.

2nd.—Where one estate is let out to two or more patnídars or thiccadars, how is a patnídar in such cases to rebut the presumption that the raiyat has not been holding lands in the other patní or thicca land of the estate.

This leads me to protest against the proposal to invest an occupancy-raiyat (though his holding may be only one yard in area) with occupancy-rights in all fresh lands he takes up, on the very same day that such lands are settled with him. Because a raiyat can cultivate a small piece of land, that is no reason why he should be able to cultivate large bits of land. He may take them simply to sub-let or sell it.

Then, too, the word 'estate' is most vague. An estate might mean a small bit of land, or it might mean large tracts of the country. The word 'village' would be more convenient. It has a well-defined boundary and it represents a specific area.

Transfer and pre-emption of occupancy-rights.

It is abundantly clear, that by the ancient land law of the country no raiyat, resident or non-resident, had the power to sell or mortgage his raiyati interest.* The Legislature and the Judges have respected this by holding that the right of occupancy is not transferable against the will of the landlord, except by custom. The contention on the part of the Government seems to be, that, as a matter of fact, the custom has grown everywhere, but the statistics to which appeal is made are not really to the point, as they do not show in how many cases the zamíndár was a consenting party before or after the transfer.

* "It is generally understood, 'that the raiyats by long occupancy acquire a right of possession in the 'soil, and are not subject to be re-'moved, but this right does not 'authorize them to sell or mortgage 'it."

Mr. Shore's Minute of 28th June, 1789; III, Harrington's Analysis, page 434.

A custom of this kind would be so notorious that there ought not to be the slightest difficulty in proving it in a Court of Justice to the satisfaction of all classes and interests, and I maintain that the wholesale introduction of transferability is uncalled for in the absence (1st) of specific and proper evidence to show that it is universally recognized; and (2nd) of any particular instances of failure of justice in the Civil Courts from the inability of purchasers to establish a really existing and flourishing custom. Such a wholesale extension of occupancy-rights, as is now contemplated, must be detrimental to both proprietor and village community alike, as it takes from the former the power of keeping on his land those peaceful and friendly raiyats whom it is his interest to retain, and opens the door for them to be ousted by mahájans or hostile zamíndárs, who can buy up their rights, and settling a different class on their lands, bring quarrels, litigation and ruin into a village.

I would suggest that the old custom of the country, by which such holdings were not transferable, was one specially tending to the security and well being of the village community, as it prevented to a great extent those who had no interest in it forcing their way therein and by setting up interest opposed to those of the community at large, and of their proprietors, ruining the village peace and prosperity.

In support of this theory I would point to the disastrous consequence attendant on right of transfer having been recognized among the Dekkhan raiyats, and also to the disturbance among the Sonthals, due mainly to the oppression of the mahájans into whose hands they had fallen; and I desire to protest against the raiyats on my own and other zamíndáries being as a natural result, if this Bill is passed, made over to the tender mercies of mahájans and other land speculators.

It is true that compensation for the introduction of the new right of transfer is offered to the proprietor in a proposed right of pre-emption, but why, I would ask, should the proprietor be forced to buy what is already his own? The proposed restricted right of pre-emption will be but small relief to the proprietor, and I would suggest that if allowed at all it should be made far more effective by its extension to every transfer of a raiyati right (except by way of inheritance), and if the same right could be extended to the case of "tenures" as well a self-acting machinery would be provided for the extinction of middlemen's interests, much to the good of all parties concerned. I would much sooner prefer free sale to bonâ-fide resident cultivators, than the right of sale to any one and every one, subject to a phantom right of pre-emption. It is supposed that the transferability of occupancy-rights would be of benefit to indigo planters in Bihár, but I know many such who are opposed to the proposal, and the Bengal planters as a class are entirely opposed to the same.

Commutation of rents.

In considering this question I would notice first, that Bhowli or rent payment in kind is not the custom in my own estates, nor do I consider that in those parts it would be as advantageous to either proprietor or cultivator as money payment of rent. But there are parts of Bihár peculiarly circumstanced, where Bhowli is the custom, and money payment the exception; and suddenly to introduce so complete a change as is contemplated under this heading, would, I think, press very heavily on all classes. This is a matter which may fairly be left to time, the experience of past generation shewing that, with the gradual increase of prosperity and civilization, payments of rent in kind have a tendency to change into money payments, and I would deprecate such a change being suddenly forced on.

Personally this question does not much affect me; but as the representative of the Bihár zamíndárs, I would here record their opinions, and that I think they are worthy of consideration.

The practice of paying rents in kind was no doubt the original method for paying rents, and its retention in parts of Bihár is due to its manifold advantages in the present condition of the people, as well as to the known desire of the people of this country to stick to old customs. Akbar's great Hindu financier Todur Mul had fixed the rent of the raiyat at $\frac{1}{3}$ of the gross produce. Aurungzebe had increased this to $\frac{1}{2}$ (one half); and the zamíndárs, taking into consideration the difficulty of the appraisement of the price of the straw, have fixed the share at $\frac{9}{16}$ths (nine-sixteenths) of the produce of the crops, and giving to the raiyats the whole value of the straw.

Where the agricultural community has no other occupation to fall back upon, it is distinctly an advantage to the cultivator, that however small the produce of his field in a season of scarcity, he should retain a part of it; on the other hand, a tenant who is bound to pay a uniform money rent, finds that in many cases the value of his whole crop is not equal to the landlord's fixed money demand. Viewed in this light, the cultivator who pays rent in kind is much better prepared to meet scarcity, than the tenant who pays money rent.

As an example of what I mean take a year in which crops have totally failed, the Bhowli-holder is liable for nothing to his landlord that year as he has no crop to share with him, but the money rent payer is liable for his full year's rent irrespective of the failure of his crop, and may be driven either to borrow at ruinous rates of interest at a time when his credit is peculiarly low, or to pay the costs and interest of a suit by the landlord. The provision for commutation of rents in kind is therefore held to be undesirable as rendering the agricultural population more liable to suffer in times of scarcity and famine.

Even in ordinary times (as the demand for rent generally coincides with the harvest), tenants paying rents in cash have in some cases, though the cases may be rare, to part with their grain at very low prices. The Bhowli tenant on the contrary, has no such sacrifice to make.

Then, again, in large tracts of alluvial formation, when a single season may make an immense difference in the productive qualities of the soil (either for good or for evil) zamíndárs and raiyats find the Bhowli system to be that most convenient and equitable for settling rents.

Further, in a Bhowli system of settlement, the landlord every year gets the benefit of sharing with the tenant any increase in the productive powers of the soil, or in the area, or in the value of the produce; and if there is any decrease, the loss is shared by both the parties. There is therefore much less cause for any of the parties to be discontented, and then there is much less occasion for the landlords to institute suits for enhancement.

So much for the commutation itself. As to the manner of working it out, the revenue-officer is to be empowered to fix the money rents, and the Bill provides that in settling such rates, he should be guided by the rate of money rents prevalent in the neighbourhood, and the average value of the rent actually received by the landlord for the last 10 years. These rules are but vague; and as we know that, as a fact, different officers take very different views on all such matters, I do not think that a question of such vital importance should be left to a revenue-officer to decide according to his own individual opinion, and that such a matter is one that can only be decided satisfactorily by mutual agreement or private contract between the landlord and his tenant. It is also argued on the side of the zamíndárs that it is more profitable to the landlord to get the share of the produce in kind, than to get a money rent, because (unlike the raiyat) he can afford to keep back his grain from the market at harvest time, and sell it to better advantage at a time of the year when the price of the grains is dear. This commutation therefore would amount in practice to a reduction of the income of the zamíndárs, which I do not suppose is the real intention of the Government.

I hope shortly to send in some statistical information regarding this, which I have not as yet had time to complete. There is another point in connection with this which is worthy of notice in the raiyat's interest, viz., that where the Bhowli system holds, the zamíndár alone at his own cost keeps up the necessary dhoor bandhs for irrigation purposes, and no cost in connection with this, although they directly benefit by it, falls on the raiyats. Whereas where rent is payable in money, if the zamíndár improves the productive powers of the land by irrigation works the raiyat is liable to have his rents enhanced, and according to local custom is expected to share the cost of keeping existing bandhs, &c., in repair with his zamíndár.

Enhancement.

About this subject as, on the subject of realization of rents, it is thought advisable that the zamíndárs should get further facilities. The present law allows enhancement of the rate of rent through the Civil Court on three grounds only, the most important being, that the value of the produce, or of the productive power of the land, has been increased, otherwise than at the expense or by the agency of the raiyat, and everybody must admit that this principle is very fair, but it has been found in practice that it is most difficult to prove the "increase" in court of law, and so enhancement through the Law Courts is almost at a dead lock. The zamíndár therefore finds it easier and less expensive to enhance his rents by private contract, but even this is by no means at all easy to accomplish owing to the unwillingness of the raiyats to pay any enhancement which they think is not obtainable through the Civil Court.

However, since Government has begun to publish the weekly price-lists of food crops in each district in the Gazette, we have better statistics to show the rise in prices. I therefore consider the proposal to make these price-lists the conclusive evidence of a rise in the prices a very good one, and by doing this the zamíndárs will no doubt get a certain amount of relief. I would however propose that the general wording of the present law should be retained and that the ground of enhancement should not be restricted, as is now proposed.

There are cases where the value of lands improves through other causes than those contemplated in this Bill; such cases might be rare and perhaps difficult to prove, but that is no reason why their existence should not be provided for.

The definition of "staple crops" in connection with enhancement, should not, I think, be limited to cheap food crops only.

All the old regulations are unanimous in declaring that the zamíndárs should enjoy the benefit of a change in the crops in the country. Sir John Shore mentions this to have been the custom before the Permanent Settlement. At the present time, too, not only the produce of the food crops but sugarcane, tobacco, betel, and various other crops also are appraised in those parts of the country where the rent is received in kind, and in the other districts we find a marked degree of difference in the rate of rents between those lands that grow cheap food crops and those that grow the more valuable crops.

This provision therfore is a "novel departure from the ancient law and the recognized customs of the country."

I see no necessity for any such additions being made to the old law which left it to the Court to give a "fair and equitable rate of rent" in all disputed cases, nor do I see the necessity for limiting the rate of enhancement. The enquiries which the Civil Court would have to make in each case would put that Court in the best position to know what rate of enhancement would be fair and equitable, and there seems no sufficient reason for curtailing its power, and preventing its giving a higher enhancement than 4 annas in the rupee, even though it might be satisfied that a higher rate would be fair and equitable.

As regards the private enhancements I fail to see the justice of doing away with free contract in this case. It is no easy thing for a landlord to get any enhancement by a private arrangement, and it is most undesirable that any loophole should be left for future dispute in such cases and that the raiyat should at time of the registration of his kuboolyuts have the opportunity to contest his liability under the contract which he has already signed.

Chapter IX of Bill—Management of Joint Estates.

I gather from paragraph 97 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons appended to the original Bill introduced in Council, and from the extracts referred to therein, that there exists an impression that the provisions for the appointment of managers for joint owners are much needed; and that the proposed legislation in that respect is necessitated by the repeal, in 1874, of certain portions of Regulation V of 1827, which has made the present law, Regulation V of 1812, Section 26, unworkable. The old Regulations gave the power to the Government to appoint managers for properties, where there are joint proprietors, and where the conduct of these joint proprietors caused an apprehension of a breach of the peace. These Regulations, however, were passed long before the enactment of the Criminal Procedure Code, according to which a breach of the peace was made a grave criminal offence. It was therefore found no longer necessary to make breach of the peace a civil as well as a criminal offence. The repeal of these Regulations in 1874 was therefore on the footing of obsolete enactments, and, consequently, there is every reason, before reviving such procedure, to enquire how far the Regulations of 1812 and 1827 were actually resorted to by public officers or private complainants, and with what success. I put a definite question to this effect in Committee, but the only reply I obtained was that the information would be looked after; and to this day I have heard no more about it. In my humble opinion when such a law has solemnly been repealed as obsolete, the proposal for its revival ought to be preceded by the collection and publication of statistics. Neither theories nor mere general impressions should precede proposals for legislation. Facts, well established and clearly arranged, can alone justify them.

I cannot leave this subject without remarking that with the progress of education and the spread of levelling ideas a purely patriarchal form of Government is no longer needed for the benefit of the raiyats. If these provisions therefore are to be re-introduced, the proprietors of estates and tenures, and even the novel tenure-holders created by this Bill, could but view with dislike the proposal which leaves the entire management of their properties in the hands of the District Judge without any right of appeal. Is there less chance of a Judge giving a wrong decision in such cases that his order in them is to be final, or is the possible enquiry which may be caused by his order likely to be less than in the many other cases which as Judge he has to decide, but in which the law refuses finality to his judgment, and provides for an appeal to the High Court?

While on this subject, I might mention that I proposed certain restrictions to be put on the management charges and the powers of the managers; I further proposed that the management charges should, on no account, be more than 12 per cent. of the gross income of the estate; and that in making this suggestion I was justified by the fact that in some cases the management charges under Government in the Court of Wards has exceeded even 20 per cent. of the gross income.

"The rate varied from division to division, having been as high as 25 per cent. in Rajshahye and Cooch Behar (where a thorough reorganisation of the system of management is urgently called for, and is now in progress), and as low as 5·1 per cent. in Orissa."—(Administration Report of Bengal, 1879-80, pages 44 and 45.)

Besides this, I made a proposal to the effect that no managers should be appointed on the ground of breach of the peace, unless all or at least one of the proprietors apply for a manager. I made this proposal, as I thought that unless we put some restrictions of this sort we are bound to see all the raiyats apply for joint-managers in all 'ijmali' estates and in all cases where they have instituted criminal proceedings for breach of the peace, simply to annoy the zamíndárs, and have failed. The Criminal Codes can more effectually treat this question than Civil Courts, as the powers vested in the Criminal Courts for the prevention of breaches of the peace are much more effective than those with which the Civil Courts are now proposed to be vested.

There was a third proposal which I made to the Select Committee, which was, that the managers should on no account be allowed to have the power of lowering rents without the consent of all the joint proprietors. I naturally think (and I moreover believe that everybody who has studied the subject at all carefully, or has any experience in the management of landed estates, and is besides not committed to official opinions on the subject, will agree with me in thinking) that the manager, who after all has only a temporary interest in the village, and who is supervised by a Government officer, whose other duties do not allow of his giving sufficient time to such supervision, would, according to the proposed Bill, have splendid opportunities of robbing the zamíndárs of their yearly income by reducing the rents of the raiyats, and filling his own pocket by taking a commission from the said raiyats as bribe for such reduction. What is the class from which the Government can, in such cases, recruit their staff of managers? Looking to the pay of such appointments it can only be much the same class from which they now recruit their Ameens and Police Inspectors, who, as is notorious, are one of the greatest curses of the country. The Government cannot possibly hope to recruit their managers from the higher class of native gentry, on account of the small salaries such appointments are likely to command. The incomes of the ordinary joint proprietors are, as a rule, very small; and moreover in these days of heavy criminal penalties for "breaches of the peace" it is not likely that Government will be able to appoint one manager for a large number of estates, and so, by ensuring his getting a sufficiently large amount of monthly salary, secure the appointment of a trustworthy man.

To all the proposals about restrictions on the power of the managers, and the expenses of their establishment (which, in the opinions of the zamíndárs I have consulted, seems strictly necessary) I got the answer in Select Committee that the High Court are to be asked to frame rules. But we, the zamíndárs, maintain that the functions of the managers should not be left undefined, but that the legislature should clearly define them. If it is really thought that the High Court knows more of this subject than the Legislative Council, then why is it that the High Court was not consulted on the very much more important questions concerning the legal rights of zamíndárs guaranteed to them by the Permanent Settlement?

Chapter XII of Bill—Record of Rights.

It has been alleged that in some estates the zamíndárs do not keep up any proper records. If so, then in such zamíndárí survey and proper record of rights might be necessary; but this is no reason why in those estates where the records are perfect and where those concerned are contented with the records they have got, the raiyat and the zamíndár should be put to the trouble of a survey.

All the zamíndárs measure their estates periodically according to the old system of measurement, and they have all some sort of rough measurement papers, and there are some who even go beyond this and have their estates not only measured but mapped out very much in the same way as is done in the estates of the Government. Their papers show the exact area and position of the raiyats' holdings, as well as the quality of the land and rates of rent payable.

There are a few zamíndárs who go even beyond this and induce all their raiyats to sign the record book after fully explaining to each of them the particulars of his field, &c. This is no easy task for the zamíndár. He has not like the Settlement Officer of the Government in its khass mehals the power to compel the attendance of the raiyats, hence he has to incur a great deal of expense and the consequent trouble is immense.

Under these circumstances can it be said that it is necessary to have a general survey, at least those zamíndárís where the records are perfect should, I think, be exempted.

I propose that if there is to be a survey it should be taken in hand in only those villages where the raiyats or zamíndárs wish it, as I do not see the justice of saddling them with the expenses of a survey which they do not wish for, and which instead of doing good is calculated to give rise to endless litigation.

In 1876 a law was passed compelling the zamíndárs to register their rights. We all know the amount of litigation this gave rise to. People who had no claims whatever came forward in the hope of getting some sort of claim recognised, and the result is that though eight years have elapsed since this Act was passed, many of the cases under it are still undecided and many of the landlords who really have the best possible title to their properties, in addition to the attendant anxiety, have been unnecessarily put to a great deal of expense.

So much for the record of the rights of the zamíndárs who do not represent even one per cent. of the population.

If the period of eight years has been found insufficient to record the rights of such a small class of the people, will it not take ten times as long to record the rights of the tenants who represent nearly the whole population of Bengal and Bíhár, and will not the litigation expense, worry, and agitation during this long period consequent on the necessary enquiries be injurious to all classes?

These are reasons which lead me to think that it is unnecessary to introduce the survey in any village except where those concerned request the Government to do it.

Record of Zamíndárs—Khamar or private lands.

This subject has been dealt with so very ably in the dissent by my hon'ble colleague Rai Kristo Dás Pál Bahádár that I need not add anything more than that I fully agree with all he has said about it.

Chapter XIII of Bill—Distraint and Realization of Rents.

It has been admitted on all sides that the zamíndárs need some more speedy and certain means for realization of rent than they now enjoy, and that the present law is quite inoperative in those cases where all the tenants combine not to pay rents. Such a high authority as Sir James Caird recognises the difficulties of the zamíndárs in those estates where the "no rent" cry is once raised, and even in the Bengal Government's memorandum of January last, this difficulty is in a way admitted.

We zamíndárs had therefore naturally hoped that with this object we would be given some increased facilities for realization of rent. In this, however, we have been greatly disappointed, and this Bill, if passed as it now stands, would leave us in this respect in a worse position than we now are, as instead of providing a summary and inexpensive method for the collection of our legal rents, it practically does away with distraint, the one only sure, equitable, and inexpensive process now allowed to us.

The present law provides that in those cases where the raiyats fall into arrears the zamíndár can by his own agency serve them with notices stating the particulars of their arrears and then at once distrain their crops. This is the only system possible in those parts of the country that lie on the frontier where a large portion of the tenants are not even British subjects, and therefore able to evade the jurisdiction of the British Civil Courts, and also in those vast tracts like the Cosi dearah in the Purneah District which are inhabited by a semi-nomadic class of tenants who seldom stop in the same locality for more than one harvest.

Even a day's delay in such cases is fatal. The crops, if the raiyats refuse to pay their rent, must be distrained as soon as they are ripe, and the raiyats should not have sufficient time to cut them without paying in their rents, as they leave the village for good directly they have gathered the harvest.

The Bill, however, proposes that in future the landlords must in every such case apply to the Civil Court, and that the crops should be only attached through that Court, thereby giving to the raiyat ample time to cut and carry off his crop before the Court officers can reach the spot to distrain it. Such a procedure not only throws extra and new costs on the zamíndár on account of Court-fees and legal agency which must be employed, but it will result in the landlord having no power whatever to realise his rents from those semi-nomadic raiyats who leave the village directly after they have cut their crops. His only remedy will now lie in a civil suit against a raiyat of whose whereabouts even he may be ignorant, and to execute a decree against whom, if he succeeds in obtaining one, will be almost impossible.

I would specially record that it appears to me to be very strange that a Bill, one of the avowed objects of which was to give to landlords what is admittedly so necessary, viz., some increased facilities for the realisation of their rents, should leave the hands of the Select Committee in such a form that instead of doing this, it intensifies their present difficulties and deprives them of the little relief they now enjoy.

It is the proprietors who are responsible for payment of their share of the Government revenue, which they have to collect from their raiyats, and it is not the Government revenue only that they have to realise; they have also of late been made to collect from their raiyats their share of certain Government cesses, and if by sunset of the day fixed for payment of the Government revenue they have not paid in their Government dues, they are liable to be summarily sold up, and turned out of their properties, and yet they are not to be given any means by which they can ensure their raiyats paying to them what they are bound under such a heavy penalty to pay in to the Government to a day.

The practical working of the law as it now stands is this, that a proprietor may be sold up and ejected from his ancestral property owing to no fault of his own but to his inability to recover his legal rents from his raiyats, an inability due to a defect in our existing laws, a defect which, as I above show, the proposed Bill aggravates.

I do not for a moment wish to dispute the justice or necessity of the law that makes it possible for large estates to be sold up for trifling arrears of Government revenue, but what I do wish to point out is that it seems to zamíndárs a want of justice on the part of Government to reserve to itself this power of summary sale while it refuses any summary powers to the landlord for the collection of his rents from his raiyats.

The Government itself recognizes the inutility of trusting to the Civil Courts only for the realization of rents, by having peculiar laws of its own in its own estates or "Khas Mehals" and if necessary for Government, surely such rules are equally so for us. I do most earnestly hope that this matter will be seriously looked into before any final conclusion on it is arrived at, as it is one which gravely affects the majority of the Bihar zamíndárs.

Chapter XVII—Freedom of Contract.

I wish to enter my strong protest against the abolition of freedom of contract between zamíndárs and their raiyats and to the contemplated annulment of contract now existing, and entered into in confidence of the good faith of Government, by whom such contracts were specially legalised and thereby encouraged.

I would urge that no evidence has been shown of the alleged evils arising out of these contracts, or that zamíndárs have by an improper use of them, injured an unsuspecting peasantry; and that until the most conclusive proof can be given that such evils have become common, no such violent breach of existing arrangement fairly arrived at by mutual consent and sanctioned by Government should be allowed.

The proposed legislation on this point seems to start with the assumption that all contracts between a zamíndár and raiyat must be prejudicial to the latter, an assumption utterly incorrect, as there are many cases in which a contract is directly to the advantage of the raiyat who benefits by complying with his landlord's wishes, to such contracts there could be no possible objection, and yet these also will now be barred.

Finally, I would desire to record, that I object strongly to the conclusions of this Select Committee, because I am of opinion that in such a momentous question, we have not had any sufficient data from which to form a fair judgment.

We should have had clear evidence given to us of the existence of those alleged causes, which not only necessitate so extreme a measure as a breach of Government guarantee and infringement of a proprietary right, but which call for a law avowedly so imperfect that the legal member of Government in introducing it has to admit that it is in itself likely to cause the extinction of the present class of cultivators for whose benefit it is specially passed; and to create in a few years a new class of cultivators unprotected by any law, and to leave the then Government of India to plunge the country once more into agitation and trouble in attempting to remedy the evils created by this Bill.

I would urge, that if a Bill is now necessary to define and regulate the relations of landlord and tenant, it should be conceived in such a spirit and so framed that instead of creating future difficulties, it should set this subject at rest for ever.

I am also of opinion, that it was impossible to give the proposed Bill proper consideration in Select Committee without evidence being taken on most of its points; and that this not having been done and proper statistical information not having been given to and tested by us, our deliberations were unsatisfactory, and that the results arrived at are based on very insufficient data.

Translation of the Firman.

Seal

Be it known to all the amils of the present and future and to the jágírdárs, karorious officers and Nazims of Sooba Bíhár, that in accordance with the order of the Emperor who is universally obeyed, the long-standing zámíndárí of Pargana Dharmpur in Sirkar Monghyr and Dehat Pargana of Sirkar Tirhut belonging to the said Sooba Bíhár, has been confirmed to Rája Madho Singh with appertaining rights, viz., inam rasooms, &c. It is necessary that the officers and karpardazes of the Nizamat should recognize the aforesaid Rája (whose zámíndárí having descended to him by succession is declared as such) to be the permanent zámíndár (subject to loyalty), keep him in possession of the zámíndárí rights, cause his all demands to be paid up, act according to his advice if the same be loyal and tending to benefit the raiyats. Further also, act in accordance with this Firman, which is high in dignity, they should strictly act up to the orders contained in the above Firman and refrain from calling upon the production of the renewed sanad annually.

Dated the 29th Shawal of the 42nd year of accession.

D. FITZPATRICK,

Secretary to the Government of India.

EXHIBITION OF SILK COCOONS.

The following papers are published for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 8th April 1884.

No 22MA, dated Calcutta, the 29th February 1884.

Memo.—By the Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

COPY, with its enclosures, forwarded to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Department, with reference to the correspondence ending with this office No. 19MA, dated the 9th ultimo.

2. The result for a first Exhibition appeared fairly satisfactory.

No. 2487G, dated Berhampore, the 19th February 1884.

From—HERBERT MOSLEY, Esq., Collector of Moorshedabad,

To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

I HAVE the honour to report the result of the Cocoon Exhibition held here from the 14th to 26th January last

2. In accordance with the Government orders contained in letter (Agriculture) No. 900T—F, dated the 6th June 1883, forwarded to me under cover of your memorandum No. 5MA, dated 14th idem, and after the enclosures had been circulated, a general meeting was called for the 8th August, which, after formally recording a note to the effect that a Cocoon Exhibition would be very beneficial, proceeded to appoint a large Committee (nominal list annexed), and also a working Sub-Committee (nominal list also annexed).

3. Messrs. Stocks and Marshall were appointed Joint-Secretaries, and a subscription list was passed round when the gentlemen present (12) promised Rs. 925 The subscription list was afterwards raised to Rs 2,625 8 of which Rs. 2,400-8 belongs to Moorshedabad, Rs 155 to Rajshahye, and Rs. 70 to Beerbhoom. To this amount Government added Rs. 2,295. A full list of subscribers is annexed.

4. At a subsequent meeting of the Committee it was decided to hold the Exhibition on the 14th January 1884, and 12 subsequent days, and a set of rules was passed and ordered to be distributed as a notice of the forthcoming Exhibition. In these rules certain prizes were offered, ranging from Rs. 75 to Rs. 5, the total amount so offered being Rs 1,870

5. The Collectors of the neighbouring districts were asked to co-operate, but, except from Beerbhoom, there was little result The Collector of Nuddea said that "the subject has not much interest for the zemindars and planters of this district, and no one seems inclined to subscribe"

6 The Collector of Hooghly informed me that no subscriptions could be raised in his district, and the Collector of Burdwan wrote that "very little assistance can be expected from this district as no cocoons are produced here." (I had myself been under the impression that they were produced in the Cutwa sub-division)

7. The Collector of Rajshahye raised a question of expense to exhibitors, and started the question of a subsidiary exhibition in his district, and on this the Committee offered to pay the cost of transit of all cocoons that complied with the rules, but deprecated the proposed holding of a subsidiary exhibition as likely to militate against the best interests of both districts

8. The Exhibition was opened by me (as Collector) at noon on the fixed date (14th January) in the presence of a good number of Europeans and natives, though the attendance was not so large as was expected After a few general remarks, I requested Baboo Baikanto Nath Sen to address the cocoon-rearers present in Bengali, and he explained to them the object of the Exhibition, giving them also a little useful advice as to how they should proceed to improve their silk.

9. The Exhibition remained open till the 26th, on which date the prizes were distributed, the cocoons having, in the meantime, been judged by four experts, whose names are given in the annexure.

10. There were 184 exhibits, the number from each district being—

Moorshedabad	...	...	157
Beerbhoom	...	...	25
Rajshahye	...	...	1

It is to be regretted that the districts of Rajshahye and Maldah practically did not compete—I had also hoped to have received exhibits from Nuddea. But considering that this was the first of the exhibitions, and that only two districts competed, the number of exhibits was more than I had expected. The quality, however, was, as a whole, very poor, only a few lots being really worthy of prizes.

11. The season has been unpropitious for the production of good cocoons, the short rainfall in September and October having caused a scarcity of mulberry which led to the silkworms being under-fed, the result being that they yielded from 15 to 20 per cent. less silk than the cocoons of the same crop last year.

12 On this account, and for the reason that this being the first Exhibition the rearers hardly believed in it, it was decided not to hold back prizes, and the following therefore were adjudged, viz —

Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
2 of 75	= 150	29 of 10	= 290
4 of 50	= 200	52 of 5	= 260
9 of 30	= 270	—	—
16 of 20	= 320	128	1,746
16 of 16	= 256	—	—

Of these Moorshedabad carried off—

Rs	Rs.	Rs.	Rs
2 of 75	= 150	19 of 10	= 190
4 of 50	= 200	50 of 5	= 250
8 of 30	= 240	—	—
11 of 20	= 220	108	1,474
14 of 16	= 224	—	—

and Beerbhoom—

Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1 of 30	= 30	2 of 5	= 10
5 of 20	= 100	—	—
2 of 16	= 32	20	272
10 of 10	= 100	—	—

Certificates signed by the Collector were granted to the winners of prizes

13 The two highest prizes were carried off by an exhibitor from thana Bharutpore, and one from thana Gokarn, both of this district on the east side of the Bhagiruthee.

14. As the first of a series of exhibitions proposed to be held annually, this has been generally accepted as a very successful one, but great hopes are indulged in that the number of exhibits will largely increase and the quality improve

15. It will be for future Committees to modify rules so as to reduce to a minimum the chance of rearers bringing up a small quantity of extra good worm for the purpose of the Exhibition while they half starve the rest. The object of these exhibitions is of course to improve rearing generally, not simply to give prizes for a few good cocoons.

16 In the present case, some rearers acknowledged that they kept a certain number of worms separate for purpose of exhibition, giving them more room than usual, and feeding them more liberally, and when asked why they did not keep the whole in a similar manner they replied that it was more expensive, and that they could not afford to do so. The people know perfectly well how to rear better cocoons, but cannot understand the advantage of going to any extra outlay for this object; they aim at quantity not quality.

17. It may therefore be well to increase the minimum quantity of cocoons to be produced for exhibition, especially for the higher prizes. The ryots will still, I am afraid, grow specially for the Exhibition, but from the larger quantity of well-fed worms a larger quantity of good seed will result, and a steady improvement must set in.

18. The total amount collected, including the Government donation, was Rs. 4,920-8-0, and the total expenditure amounted to Rs 2,348-13-3, leaving a balance of Rs. 2,571-10-9 to be carried forward to the credit of the Fund for future exhibitions. It would be well that year by year the Fund should grow larger and larger, as this will make the continuance of the exhibitions more certain, and it is only by steady perseverance, holding them annually, that any good will result.

19. I have to express my thanks to the members of Committees and the Judges, and more specially to Mr. Stocks (of the Bengal Silk Company) to whose personal exertions the success of the Exhibition is mainly due.

MAURITIUS INTERCOLONIAL EXHIBITION FOR SUGARS.

Port Louis, Mauritius, the 11th February 1884

From—J F. ANDERSON, ESQ., Secretary, Exhibition Committee,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that an Intercolonial Exhibition for Sugars will be held at Port Louis, between the 1st and 10th of next December, under the auspices of the Royal Society of Arts and Sciences of Mauritius. The Exhibition Committee beg to express the hope that the Colony of Calcutta will have no objection to take part in the said Exhibition.

Sugars of all kinds will be admitted, viz., Cane, Beet, Maple, Sorghum, &c.

After due receipt of your favourable reply, I will forward to you the necessary notes as to any information you may require.

Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops.

Statement showing Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops in the different Districts of Bengal, as reported to Government during the week ending the 12th April 1884

No	District, and date of return.	Rainfall at Sudder Station in inches.	Character of the weather, state and prospects of the crops, and state of health at date.
	BENGAL.
	Western Districts
Burdwan Div. 1	Burdwan, April 12 '84	Nil	Weather—seasonable. No important crops on the ground. Rain wanted.
2	Bankoora, „ 12 „	0 30	Weather—hot. There was a storm and shower of hailstones on the 8th. Wheat and barley being reaped, a three-fourth crop. Boro paddy, cotton, til seed and indigo are the only crops now in the field. Rain much wanted for ploughing for early rice crop. Price of rice stationary. Sporadic cases of cholera and small-pox continue to be reported from the interior; the former is gradually abating in Bankoora town

BEHAR.
Patna Div. 26	Patna, April 12 '84	Nil	Weather—hot. West wind daily. Harvesting of rubbee nearly completed. Rain much wanted for cheena and mung and for ploughing. Prices of food-grains have fallen slightly.
27	Gya, „ 12 „	Nil	Weather—warm. West wind has ceased for a couple of days. Hardly any crops on the ground. A few cases of cholera among pilgrims in the town. Small-pox widespread. Prices almost stationary.
28	Shahabad „ 12 „	.....	Weather—hot, with high west wind in the afternoon. Threshing and winnowing operations of the rubbee crops lately harvested are in progress.
	Arrah ..	Nil
	Buxar ..	Nil
	Nasseram ..	Not received
	Bhabua ...	Not received
29	Durbhunga, „ 12 „	Nil	Weather—hot; east wind prevailing since last two days. Harvesting of rubbee completed. Agricultural operations stopped for want of rain, which is very urgently required for early paddy Mung and cheena already sown. Prices stationary. Grain is being imported from the North-West Provinces. Public health fair.
30	Mozufferpore, „ 12 „	Nil	Weather—dry and warm. During a portion of the week west wind ceased, but has now recommenced. Rubbee harvest over. Tillage in progress, but long absence of rain has rendered the soil very hard. Public health good.
31	Sarun, „ 12 „	Nil	Weather—bright and hot. Prospects of indigo on unirrigated lands decidedly bad, the strong west winds having destroyed a good deal of the sowings. Cheena sowings continue. Early paddy sowings coming on well. Sugarcane cuttings being laid out. No other crops on the ground. Prices fairly steady. Small-pox of a mild type still prevalent, otherwise public health good.
32	Chumparun, „ 12 „	Nil	Weather—hot, with strong west wind. Harvesting of rubbee almost completed; the outturn fully 8 annas. The prices of wheat and barley have fallen already at several marts, and when the new grain comes in, prices are likely to fall lower. Public health good.
Bhagulpore Div. 33	Monghyr „ April 12 '84	Nil	Weather—great heat during the day. The west winds have moderated during the week. Rubbee crops have been very nearly all harvested. Prices stationary. A deficiency of water is being experienced in places, and rain is anxiously looked for. The mango crop promises well.
34	Bhagulpore, „ 12 „	Nil	Weather—windy. Cheena the only standing crop promises well. Mung and paddy sown in low land in the north do not promise well. Prices stationary. Small-pox still prevalent chiefly in town of Bhagulpore.
35	Purneah, „ 12 „	Nil	Weather—wind changed to east lately Fair outturn of wheat, linseed, pulses and barley in the north, very poor in the south. Rain much wanted. Health fair.
36	Maldah, „ 12 „	*	Weather—hot with occasional gathering of clouds. Boro paddy is suffering much, as the sources of water-supply for artificial irrigation have failed considerably and a great deal of this crop has already perished for want of moisture. Most of the remaining boro paddy will be materially injured if rain does not fall soon and revive this plant; about half the crop is in danger of being lost. Rain is also wanted for mulberry and indigo, the prospects of which are now bad Prices of common rice are from 12 to 13 seers a rupee. A few cases of cholera and small-pox are reported from the interior. The rivers are unusually low, and away from the rivers there is great scarcity of water. Advantage is being taken of the present drought for improvement of numerous tanks throughout the district
37	Sonthal Pergha. „ 12 „	Nil	Weather—hot and dry with occasional storms No crops except mohua and mango both good. Prices have again risen in the north. An outbreak of cholera reported from Pakour.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL DURING THE MONTH OF MARCH 1884.

THE month of March is usually the commencement of the hot weather season in Northern India. During the greater part of the month, the Central Deccan, as represented by the stations of Bellary, Sholapore, Belgaum, and Poona, is the region of highest temperature. Temperature increases with the increasing elevation of the sun over the whole of India, but more rapidly in Northern than Southern India, and usually in the last week of March, or the first week of April, the area of greatest temperature is transferred to the Central Provinces, Central India and Chutia Nagpur, with the adjacent districts of South-West Bengal and Behar.

The gradual increase of temperature accompanies and produces a change in the pressure. Pressure in the month of February is lowest in Southern India and at the entrance to the Bay. In March it is, as a rule, lowest in the North Deccan, Central Provinces and Chutia Nagpur, and is nearly uniform over the Gangetic valley. With this northward transfer of the area of low pressure, the sea winds at the head of the Bay strengthen and become remarkably steady, so that they rarely, if ever, give way to northerly winds. The cold weather westerly winds down the Gangetic valley continue unaltered in direction, but begin during this month to assume in Behar the character of dry hot winds. This is due to their passing over a parched heated land surface. The easterly winds down the Assam valley are continued across North Bengal, and are felt at the foot of the Himalayas as far west as Purneah and Durbhunga. The effects of the convergence of these three sets of air currents towards and around Central Bengal have been referred to in previous monthly reports. It is certainly to their interaction that the hot weather storms of Bengal are due, and the number and locality of these storms probably depends in some way upon the relative strength and characteristics of the three currents, in some way not yet determined.

During settled weather in March the effect of the sun's heat is to cause the air pressure to diminish. This does not, however, take place by a steady or continuous fall, but by a series of small and fairly regular oscillations, in which the fall is generally greater than the rise. If the effect of the sun's heat accompanying the meteorological conditions of the period is to produce large and irregular fluctuations of the barometer, this is an almost certain sign of a general disturbed state of an atmosphere over the Province, and usually precedes and accompanies a series of local storms, occurring over periods of several days. The extent of country visited by any of these local storms is probably small, but the observations taken by the Meteorological Department are not sufficient to enable any of them to be completely localized and its history written. The normal features of the weather in Bengal during March are diminishing pressure, increasing temperature, great dryness of the air, clear skies and a general increase in the air circulation. At irregular intervals the atmosphere becomes disturbed for some days, and a series of local storms occur bringing heavy rain showers. By this irregular action a moderate amount of rain is given to the Province during the month. The average rainfall of the month is smallest in Behar, where it is slightly less than half an inch It averages nearly an inch in Chutia Nagpur and Orissa. It ranges between one and two inches over the whole of South-West Bengal, and in the Dacca, Chittagong, Furreedpore, and Dacca districts of East Bengal. In the remaining districts of East Bengal (in the neighbourhood of the Garo and Khasia hills), and in the Rungpore and Julpigori districts of North Bengal it varies in amount between two and four inches. Over the remaining districts of North Bengal it varies from half an inch in the districts bordering on North Behar to two inches in the eastern districts.

The meteorology of the past month is characterized by several strongly marked features which are either the direct continuation of similar features in the month of February, or the effect of the conditions obtaining during that and previous months. Thus in the features of great dryness of the air, deficient rainfall, and steadier and stronger westerly winds in the Gangetic valley than usual, the months of February and March agree. The effect of the sun's heat acting on an unusually dry atmosphere, and upon a soil which is parched to an unusual extent in consequence of the deficient cold weather and south-west monsoon rains, has been to increase temperature over the Province very rapidly, and hence the diminished temperature and increased pressure of February have been succeeded by increased temperature and diminished pressure during the hot weather month of March.

Atmospheric pressure.—The barometer generally oscillated within narrow limits during the month, so that there was less atmospheric disturbance than usual. Disturbances in a dry atmosphere give rise to smaller results than in a damp atmosphere, and pass away more speedily. There has been during the month a tendency to the establishment of an area of low pressure over Assam and the adjacent districts of North and East Bengal. It is over these districts also where rain has chiefly fallen. Pressure was much below the average during the first week of the month, slightly above it during the second, and considerably below it for the remainder of the month. Hence the mean pressure was in defect for all stations. The deficiency averaged ·03″ in Orissa, South-West Bengal and the greater part of East Bengal, and was slightly less than ·04″ in Behar. It was least over two local areas represented by Hazaribagh and Chittagong, where the deficiency slightly exceeded ·01″.

Temperature.—The mean daily temperature was from 2° to 4° above the normal over the whole Province during the first and second weeks of the month. The excess was greatest in Behar, where it averaged nearly 3½°. It was above the normal during the remainder of the month in Orissa, South-West Bengal, Behar and Chutia Nagpur by amounts ranging from 1° to 3°. It was on the other hand slightly below the normal temperature over the greater part of East Bengal. The mean temperature of the month was 2° above the average in South-West Bengal, and 2½° above it in Behar and Chutia Nagpur.

The increased temperature was almost equally marked in the day and night temperatures.

The following table gives the highest maximum temperature registered during the month at six selected stations, the highest known temperature recorded in the same month, the average maximum and the normal maximum temperature for comparison.

Humidity.—The air has been unusually dry over the whole of the Province, except a narrow strip of country bordering the Bengal and Orissa coasts. In Behar, Chutia Nagpur, and the western districts of Bengal, this is due to the unusual dryness of the westerly winds, the cause of which has been already explained. Over the greater part of Central Bengal the dryness was due to the occasional extension of the dry westerly winds across the country as far east occasionally as Serajgunj and Dinagepore. Many examples of this might be given. The following single case will illustrate the occasional extension and effect of these westerly winds:—

	March 25th.		March 26th.		March 27th.
	Wind direction.	Humidity.	Wind direction.	Humidity.	Wind direction.	Humidity.
Berhampore	S W	72	W	15	S W	57
Rampore Beauleah	S W	74	W	18	S W	57
Dinagepore	S E	75	S W	19	E N E	36

The table shows that on the 25th, when the usual winds of the season were blowing the humidity was about 70 per cent. During the next 24 hours the wind shifted round to west, when the humidity of the air in Central Bengal fell to an average of 18. This lasted only for the day, and on the next day the normal conditions were generally re-established.

Remarkably low humidities were hence registered during the month at the Behar and West Bengal stations, such as have rarely, if ever, been registered before in the month of March in Bengal, and which are as low as are registered in the dry months of May and June in the driest districts of the Upper Provinces. The following are a few of the more remarkable minimum 10 A. M. humidities registered during the month:—

	Lowest 10 A. M. humidities during month.	Date of observations.
Serajgunj	20	7th
Dinagepore	19	26th
Burdwan	17	26th
Purneah	17	17th

Bhagulpore	12	27th
Raniganj	11	18th
Hazaribagh	10	26th
Dehree	10	28th
Gya	6	26th

The average humidity of the month was from 6 to 16 per cent. in defect in Chutia Nagpur, Behar, and South-West Bengal, and over the greater part of the area averaged 12 per cent. below the normal humidity.

Winds.—The air circulation over the Province was generally steadier than usual, and the winds somewhat stronger The most important feature was the unusual strength of the westerly winds down the Gangetic valley, which gave a stronger westerly element to the winds at the head of the Bay and in South Bengal than usual. The strength of the westerly winds was also shown by their occasional extension over the whole of Central Bengal. On several occasions during the month dry westerly winds prevailed as far east as Serajgunj and Rampore Beauleah.

Rainfall.—It has been already pointed out that the month was characterized by less atmospheric disturbance than usual. The first and second weeks were practically rainless over the whole Province. The third week was one of slight disturbance which gave moderate rain to East and South Bengal and Orissa. During the first half of the last ten days of the month this disturbance continued, but gave rain chiefly to North Bengal, where large amounts fell in the districts near the hills. The last four days of the month were dry and rainless. The total rainfall of the month is slightly above the average mainly in these districts in North and East Bengal near the hills, that is in the Chittagong, Burrisal, Noakhally, Mymensingh, Rungpore and Julpigori districts. Over the remainder of the Province it is considerably below the average. No rain fell in Behar or Chutia Nagpur, except a few very light showers of no importance.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the month of March 1884:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h. 10h 16h. and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

CALCUTTA,
The 14th April 1884.

JOHN ELIOT,
Meteorological Reporter to the Govt. of Bengal.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL DURING THE WEEK ENDING 11TH APRIL 1884.

THE past week has been one of very slight atmospheric disturbance. The barometer gave way steadily over the greater part of the Province during the first three or four days of the week. The winds at the same time increased in force, more especially in Behar and Chutia Nagpur and the adjacent districts of South-West Bengal and North Behar. On the 6th and 7th unusually strong dry westerly winds, having probably during the daytime a velocity of from 20 to 30 miles per hour, prevailed in these districts. The sea winds at the head of the Bay also increased slightly in strength on the 5th and 6th, and then drew round to directions between SSW and SSE. These changes gave rise to a series of local storms with rain in South-West and North Bengal on the 8th, and in East Bengal on the 8th and 9th. During the remainder of the week the westerly winds blew very lightly. The decrease in their force was apparently due to a considerable fall of the barometer in the Punjab, which caused the winds in the Upper Provinces to draw round to east. The southerly winds from the head of the Bay and the easterly winds from Assam hence extended their influence considerably over the Province. The air became much damper, except in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur. Easterly winds prevailed along the foot of the Himalayas to the western limits of Behar (as represented by Motihari).

Atmospheric pressure.—Pressure decreased steadily in the western districts of the Province until the 7th or 8th, and increased during the remainder of the week. In the eastern districts it oscillated more rapidly and through smaller amounts. Hence the variations of the mean pressure during the week from the normal pressure differ considerably. Pressure was in defect in Behar by amounts ranging from an average of ·002″ at Durbhunga to ·016″ at Purneah and to 031″ at Gya (?). It differed from the normal by very small amounts in South-West Bengal, Chutia Nagpur and Orissa, and in the north and central districts of East Bengal. It was considerably (·03″) in excess in the southern districts of East Bengal as represented by Chittagong.

Temperature.—The mean temperature of the week is above the average for all stations, except Chittagong and False Point. In consequence of the occurrence of rain during the week, the excess is slightly smaller than it was for last week, except in Behar, for which it was nearly 3½°, and at Calcutta, where the excess for the week averaged 3·8°. In South-West Bengal, Orissa, and Chutia Nagpur it was 2°, and in the greater part of East Bengal it probably averaged 1°.

The highest maximum temperatures of 105° and upwards registered during the week were—

Chyebassa	108·1°	on the 6th, 7th, and 11th.
Cuttack	107·4°	„ 7th.
Gya	107·2°	„ 11th.
Berhampore	105·7°	„ 6th.
Dehree	105·5°	„ 11th.
Burdwan	105·4°	„ 6th.
Ranigunj	105 0°	„ 7th and 11th.

These figures show that the 6th, 7th and the 11th were generally the hottest days of the week, and that the area of greatest temperature is practically identical with what it was last week, and included South Behar, Chutia Nagpur, West Orissa, and the western districts of South-West Bengal. During the greater part of the week the Central Provinces and the southern districts of Chutia Nagpur were the hottest portions of India.

Winds.—The chief features have been already indicated. Very strong dry westerly winds blew down the Gangetic valley and extended into Central Bengal on the 5th, 6th and 7th, after which they were very feeble The south-westerly winds in South Bengal and easterly winds in North Bengal were of moderate force during the first three days of the week, but afterwards increased in strength and advanced northwards and westwards into Central Bengal and North Behar.

Humidity.—The air was very dry over a large part of the Province during the early part of the week. With the changes of wind that occurred on the 8th, the air became much damper over the whole of Bengal, and in North Behar. Unusually low 10 A.M. humidities were observed at many stations.

The following are the most remarkable :—

Dinagepore	17	per cent.	on the 6th.
Purneah	13	„	„ 5th.
Ranigunj	13	„	„ 6th.
Bhagulpore	11	„	„ 6th.
Hazaribagh	10	„	„ 6th.
Gya	8	„	„ 9th.
Dehree	6	„	„ 9th.

Rainfall.—No rain (with the exception of one or two light showers of no importance) fell in Behar, Chutia Nagpore or Orissa. Fairly general rain occurred in South-West Bengal and North Bengal on the 8th, and in East Bengal on the 8th and 9th. The showers in South-West Bengal were nowhere heavy, and were probably everywhere local in character. The largest fall was ·9″ at Ranaghat. The rainfall was larger in amount in North Bengal, but none occurred in the Maldah, Cooch Behar, and Julpigori districts. The largest amount registered was 1·58 inches at Bhavanigunj in the Rungpore district. In Eastern Bengal the rain appears to have been general and fairly well distributed, and slightly above the average of the week. The largest falls in 24 hours were 2·45 inches at Munshigunj and 2·34 inches at Kishoregunj.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 11th of April 1884 :—

MEMORANDA.

THE mortuary returns of the districts in Bengal, for the month of February 1884, furnish the following particulars —

(1) That the deaths of 94,020 persons were recorded among a population of 66,163 884 representing an annual ratio of 17·04 per 1,000, against 20 40 per 1,000 in the preceding month, and 15 84 per 1,000 during the corresponding month of 1883.

(2) That the highest casualty-rates were returned from the following districts :—

Districts	Ratio per mille.
Nuddea	29·76
Rajshahye	28·08
Birbhum	27 24
Pubna	25 32
Balasore	24 96
Jessore	23 88
Midnapore	23 76
Noakhali	23·16

(3) That the principal death-causes presented the mortality exhibited below, in comparison with the results of the corresponding month of 1883 :—

	Ratio per mille during—
	February 1884	February 1883.
Cholera	60	84
Small-pox	·24	12
Fever	12 60	11 76
Bowel-complaints	72	·72
Injury	12	·12
Other causes	2·52	2 04

The only noticeable point indicated by the above figures is that fever prevailed with greater severity during the month under notice than during the corresponding month of the preceding year.

(4) That of the abovementioned diseases, cholera, small-pox, fever and "other causes" were notably fatal in the following districts :—

Cholera	Ratio per mille.	Small-pox.	Ratio per mille	Fever.	Ratio per mille	Other causes	Ratio per mille.

Office of Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal,
The 14th April 1884.

R. LIDDERDALE, M.D., Deputy Surgeon-General,
Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal.

MEMORANDA.

THE returns received from the first class Municipalities in Bengal, during the week ending 29th March 1884, disclose the following results:—

(1) That births were registered in the proportion of 29·2 per 1,000 of the living, and deaths at 40·6 per 1,000, as opposed to 27·3 and 38·1 per 1,000, respectively, during the preceding week ending 22nd March 1884, indicating sensible improvement in the record of both events.

(2) That the highest proportions of births and deaths were returned from the undermentioned Municipalities:—

Births.	Ratio per mille.	Deaths.	Ratio per mille.
Bhagulpore	51·6	Gya	81·9
Santipore	49·0	Suburbs of Calcutta ...	61·4

		Beauleah	47 3
		Santipore	45·5
		Burdwan	38 1
		Purneah	38·1
		Patna	33·1

(3) That the mortality from the principal death-causes exhibited in the statement appended to this memoranda, contrasted with the death-rates from the same causes during the preceding week, stands as noted below:—

	Ratio per mille during the weeks ending—
	29th Feb. 1884.	22nd Feb. 1884.
Cholera	10·9	9 4
Small-pox	4·4	4·4
Fever	13·1	12·6
Bowel-complaints	4·4	4·2
Injury	·5	·2
Other causes	7·3	7 2

indicating that, there was a noticeably increase of mortality from cholera and fever, with no variation in that from small-pox, and that the casualties from the rest of the diseases were slightly higher.

(4) That of the abovementioned causes of death, while bowel-complaints and injury proved nowhere severe, the rest of the diseases caused the highest mortality in the following Municipalities:—

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of the section of the community taken in February 1881 was not reliable, owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

2nd.—He must produce a satisfactory certificate of good moral character, and be above the age of twenty years.

IV.—EXAMINATIONS.

(7.) Every candidate for examination for Pleadership or for Mukhtarship shall, on or before the 15th November, or first open day thereafter in each year, apply to the Examiners for leave to present himself at the ensuing examination, and he shall establish to their satisfaction that he possesses the qualifications prescribed for such candidates.

(8.) Such application is not to be transmitted to the Examiners direct; but it is to be filed before the said 15th day of November, or first open day thereafter, in the Court of the District Judge within whose jurisdiction the candidate resides or is employed (Calcutta, for this purpose, being taken to be within the district of the 24-Pergunnahs), accompanied by the necessary documents and papers in original, with the receipt of the officer in charge of a Government Treasury for, at least, one-half of the fee required, previous to examination, by Rule 20. The Judge shall thereupon enquire into the validity of the certificate of character presented by the candidate, and shall satisfy himself as to the identity of the candidate; and he shall on or before the 1st December, transmit to the Examiners all such applications, with the documents accompanying, together with a list of the applications and annexures, and with his opinion in each case as to the sufficiency of the testimonials produced, and any other information which he may think it needful in any case to communicate.

(9.) The Examiners shall thereupon take the case of each candidate, with the report of the District Judge, into their consideration, and shall determine whether or not the candidate is possessed of the necessary qualifications. If the candidate is found qualified, the Examiners shall cause his name, the name of his father, his age and place of residence, and other needful particulars, to be entered in a register of persons permitted to appear at the examination.

(10.) An extract from the register shall be forwarded to the District Judge, with a declaration that the candidate is permitted to appear at the next ensuing examination at for delivery to him. The

If the candidate is found qualified, the Examiners shall cause his name, the name of his father, his age and place of residence, and other needful particulars, to be entered in a register of persons permitted to appear at the examination.

(10.) An extract from the register shall be forwarded to the District Judge with a declaration that the candidate is permitted to appear at the next ensuing examination at for delivery to him. The Judge

Judge shall cause a notice of his having received such extracts to be stuck up in his court-house, and shall deliver them to the candidates on application.

The District Judge, in carrying out this Rule and Rule 8, shall conform to such instructions as he may receive from the Examiners through their President or Secretary.

(11.) Before the date of examination every candidate shall pay into a Government Treasury the balance of the fee prescribed by Rule 20, and shall at the same time present to the officer in charge of the Treasury the extract from the register to be furnished to him under Rule 9; and the Treasury receipt for the fee shall be endorsed thereon. Every candidate for examination shall produce to the Examiners the extract from the register, with the Treasury receipt so endorsed thereon.

V.—ADMISSION.

(12.) Any person who shall have qualified under these rules, and who shall desire to be admitted to practice, shall pay into the Government Treasury of the district in which he shall intend ordinarily to practise, the fee prescribed by Rule 20; and shall, on presentation of the certificate of the Examiners, or of his diploma, of the receipt for the said fee, and of a stamp paper of the necessary value for his first certificate of practice, be entitled to apply to the High Court for admission, stating in what classes of Courts he desires to practice, with reference to Schedule 1 and Schedule 2 of Act XVIII of 1879.

(13.) The application, together with the certificate, the receipt, and the stamp paper required by Rule 12, shall be presented to the Judge of the district in which the applicant intends ordinarily to practise; and shall be forwarded by the Judge to the Registrar of the High Court, with such remarks as he may think fit to make thereon.

(14.) The name of the applicant and his place of abode, together with his father's name and place of abode, shall be affixed in some conspicuous place in the court-house of the Judge to whom the application is sent, and also in the High Court, at least six weeks before the applicant is admitted to practise.

(15.) The High Court may call for evidence of the respectability of the applicant in any case in which it may be deemed necessary.

VI.—CERTIFICATES.

(16.) Upon the applicant being admitted by the High Court, the Registrar of the High Court shall cause his name to be entered in the proper register, and shall grant him a certificate as required by Section 7 of Act XVIII of 1879, authorizing him to practise up to the end of the current year in the Courts, and, in the case of a Pleader, also the Revenue Offices, specified therein.

shall cause a notice of his having received such extracts to be stuck up in his court-house, and shall deliver them to the candidates on application.

The District Judge, in carrying out this Rule and Rule 8, shall conform to such instructions as he may receive from the Examiners through their President or Secretary.

(11.) Every candidate for examination shall produce to the Examiners the extract from the register when he presents himself for examination.

V—ADMISSION.

(12.) Any person who shall have qualified under these rules, and who shall desire to be admitted to practise, shall pay into the Government Treasury of the district in which he shall intend ordinarily to practise, the fee prescribed by Rule 20; and shall, on presentation of the certificate of the Examiners, or of his diploma, of the receipt for the said fee, and of a stamp paper of the necessary value for his first certificate of practise, be entitled to apply to the High Court for admission, stating in what classes of Courts he desires to practise, with reference to Schedule 1 and Schedule 2 of Act XVIII of 1879.

(13.) The application, together with the certificate, the receipt, and the stamp paper required by Rule 12, shall be presented to the Judge of the district in which the applicant intends ordinarily to practise; and shall be forwarded by the Judge to the Registrar of the High Court, with such remarks as he may think fit to make thereon.

(14.) The name of the applicant and his place of abode, together with his father's name and place of abode, shall be affixed in some conspicuous place in the Court-house of the Judge to whom the application is sent, and also in the High Court, at least six weeks before the applicant is admitted to practise.

(15.) The High Court may call for evidence of the respectability of the applicant in any case in which it may be deemed necessary.

VI.—CERTIFICATES.

(16.) Upon the applicant being admitted by the High Court, the Registrar of the High Court shall cause his name to be entered in the proper register, and shall grant him a certificate as required by Section 7 of Act XVIII of 1879, authorizing him to practise up to the end of the current year in the Courts, and, in the case of a Pleader, also the Revenue Offices specified therein.

(17.) The certificate shall bear the number assigned to it in the register, and shall be signed by the Registrar and forwarded to the District Judge, to be delivered to the applicant.

(18.) Any Pleader or Mukhtar who may apply for the renewal of his certificate under Section 7, Act XVIII of 1879, unless he has been ordinarily practising in the Court of the District Judge, or other officer authorized to renew certificates, shall with his application file a certificate of character from the Judge presiding in the Court in which the applicant ordinarily practises. The Munsif, Subordinate Judge, or Judge of a Small Cause Court may forward the application for renewed certificate to the District Judge.

(19.) The renewed certificate shall state only the particulars contained in the former certificate, and the fact and date of its renewal.

VII.—FEES.

(20.) The fees payable previous to examination, and on application for enrolment, shall be as follows :—

	Pleader.	Mukhtar.
Before examination ...	Rs. 30	Rs. 15
Before admission ...	„ 25	„ 10

VIII.—PENALTIES.

(21.) If any person, having passed the examination entitling him to be admitted and enrolled as a Pleader or as a Mukhtar, shall fail to apply for such admission and enrolment for a period of one year from the time of passing the examination, he shall not be admitted and enrolled, unless by special order of the High Court the time for such application shall be extended.

(22.) That the agreement annexed to and incorporated in the Articles of Association of the Company be altered in the following particulars:—

1. By substituting for clause IV the following clause IV:—

"The said Company will pay to the said Thomas Albert Reardon for the said works and machinery (including the setting up of the latter in working order) mentioned in clauses I and II the sum of Rs. 37,500 as follows, that is to say, the sum of Rs. 8,000 in cash and Rs 2,000 in fully paid up shares of the Company of Rs. 10 each forthwith; the sum of Rs. 7,000 in cash and Rs. 3,000 in fully paid up shares as aforesaid when the engine and boiler mentioned in Schedule A shall be then in or on the premises of the Company, provided that the first call of Rs. 3 per share on the capital of the Company (other than the shares to be allotted to the said Thomas Albert Reardon) has been realised, and if the said call has not then been fully realised, then when the same shall be so realised; the sum of Rs. 5,000 in cash and Rs. 2,500 in fully paid up shares as aforesaid when the remaining articles and things mentioned and comprised in the said Schedule A shall be then in or on the premises of the Company; and the remaining sum of Rs. 10,000 in fully paid up shares as aforesaid shall be retained for the purposes hereinafter mentioned"

2. By substituting for the words "March, April, and May" in clause VI of the agreement the words "June, July, and August."

3. By substituting for the figures "5,000" in clause VIII of the agreement the figures and the words "10,000 in fully paid up shares of the Company," and for the words "may be deducted therefrom" the words "may be realised by the sale by the Company of the said shares or a sufficient number of them."

4. For substituting for clause IX of the agreement the following clause IX:—

"The said shares or such of them (if any) as shall remain after such deductions as aforesaid shall be transferred and made over, to the said Thomas Albert Reardon on the Company being satisfied that he has duly performed his part of this agreement."

Carried unanimously."

The Indian Law Reports.

Published under Authority.

THE "Indian Law Reports," published under the authority of the Governor-General in Council, appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and comprise four series,—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Office of the Legislative Department at Calcutta, except the copies for officials in the Bengal Presidency, which are distributed by the Bengal Secretariat, and the copies for subscribers registered by Messrs. Thacker, Spink & Co., which are distributed by that firm; and the Madras, Bombay and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad respectively.

On and from the 1st January 1884, the terms of subscription and sale will be reduced as follow:—

Terms of subscription, payable annually in advance.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE CHEMICAL EXAMINER FOR 1883.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.—MEDICAL.

Darjeeling, the 19th April 1884.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

A letter from the Surgeon-General, Bengal, No. 1788, dated 18th March 1884, forwarding the report of the Chemical Examiner for 1883.

Read again—

The report for 1882-83 and the resolution recorded upon it.

UNDER instructions recently received from the Government of India, the reports of the Chemical Examiner will in future embrace the calendar, and not, as hitherto, the official year. In consequence of these orders, the present report deals with a period of nine months only, from the 1st April to the 31st December 1883. There has been some delay in submitting the report, which is explained as being due to the desire of Dr. Warden to append to it a full account of his investigation of the mode in which inoculation with the abrus precatorius seed proves fatal to cattle. The subject is noticed in the 25th paragraph of Dr. Warden's report, but a fuller investigation is being made, and the results should be submitted. The report should in future years be forwarded to Government not later than the 1st March.

2. In consequence of the shorter period which is embraced by the report, the figures which it contains do not admit of direct comparison with those of former years. The following table shows the work done in the last two years:—

	1882-83.	1st April to 31st December 1883.
Human viscera tested for poison	210	127
Animal ditto ditto	105	76
Substances suspected to be or to contain poison ...	663	316
Articles tested for blood stains	186	143
Ditto for seminal stains	28	26
Inflammable oils	162	42
Lime-juice	18	51
Potable water	77	44
Opium, confiscated	29	23
Do., quantitative, for Board of Revenue ...	8	...
Salt	2	3
Spirits for deleterious adulterations	6	19
Spirit determinations for the Collector of Customs	127	61
Articles tested for Purity and Quality.
For Small Arms Ammunition Factory, Dum-Dum	312	191
„ Arsenal, Fort William	9	1
„ Ishapore and Cossipore Factories ...	...
„ Medical Store Department	5
„ Commissariat Department	158
„ Miscellaneous	28
Total ...	2,133

The total number of analyses, &c., made during the nine months under report was 1,211. If this number be increased by one-third, the work of twelve months may be taken at 1,615, which is less by nearly 25 per cent. than that of the previous year. The decrease was most considerable under the heads of "Human viscera tested for poison," "Substances suspected to be or to contain poison," "Inflammable oils," "Potable water," "Spirit determinations for the Collector of Customs," and articles tested for purity and quality for the Small Arms Ammunition Factory, Dum-Dum, and for the Commissariat Department. There was, on the other hand, a considerable relative increase in the number of analyses of lime-juice and spirits for deleterious adulterations. In addition to the analytical work, 14 opinions were submitted by the Chemical Examiner on various technical points, compared with 26 during the previous twelve months.

3. There has been a steady decline during the past four years in the number of cases in which human viscera were submitted for analysis, the numbers having been 270 in 1880-81, 225 in 1881-82, 210 in 1882-83, and 127 in the period under review. The percentages of total cases in which poison was found during these four years were 51·4, 41·3, 46·6, and 46·8 respectively. The Surgeon-General has drawn attention to the fact that during the past nine months the number of post-mortem examinations in medico-legal cases held by officers of the hospital assistant class has been comparatively insignificant, being only 19 against 103 during 1882-83. During the same period, 45 autopsies were made by Civil Surgeons against 45, and 34 by Assistant Surgeons against 28. Eleven autopsies were also made for the first time by Civil Surgeons with the aid of medical subordinates. This satisfactory result was in great measure due to the orders which were passed last year, directing that bodies in police cases should invariably be sent in to the district head-quarters for post-mortem examination by the Civil Surgeon, except where, by reason of the distance or other valid cause, there was danger of the subject not arriving in a fit state for examination. The Lieutenant-Governor attaches much importance to this arrangement, which should do much to prevent the miscarriages of justice that are inevitable when post-mortem examinations are entrusted to medical subordinates of low professional qualifications. Some difficulty has, however, arisen in consequence of the necessity of taking the evidence in Court of the officer by whom the post-mortem was conducted. It is hoped that this difficulty may be overcome by the plan, to which allusion is made in the present report, of causing the autopsies to be performed by medical subordinates under the supervision and with the co-operation of the Civil Surgeon. In such cases the report should always be signed by the superior officer, as well as by his subordinate, but the evidence of the subordinate would ordinarily be sufficient, and it would not, as a rule, be necessary to summon the Civil Surgeon from head-quarters for the purpose of being examined before the Criminal Court of first instance.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to learn that the post-mortem reports received by the Chemical Examiner during the year show some improvement as regards care in compilation, and that the medico-legal parcels were, as a rule, better packed. The reports are still, however, said to be superficial, and the Surgeon-General should lose no opportunity of impressing upon local officers the paramount necessity of carrying out to the letter the rules that have been laid down for their guidance. It is somewhat curious that, notwithstanding that a far larger proportion of the post-mortem examinations after which human viscera were sent to the Chemical Examiner for analysis were conducted by officers of high qualifications, there was no appreciable increase in the percentage of cases in which poison was found. No reason for this has been suggested by the Surgeon-General. The Lieutenant-Governor would wish to have before him the results of two or three more years' working of the new rule before coming to any conclusion. The case reported in the 11th paragraph of the Chemical Examiner's letter, in which death was attributed by the Assistant Surgeon to cholera, but in which, upon enquiry, arsenic was detected in the viscera, demands the fullest investigation. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to notice several other cases in which the primary post-mortem examinations by native officers were imperfect and incorrect.

5. Three hundred and sixteen suspected articles were received for examination, compared with 639 in the previous year, and poison was found in 33·4 per cent. only, against 42 per cent. The most common poisons were, as usual, arsenic, opium, datura, mercury, and aconite. Other subtances were, however, more largely found than in previous years. The number of animal viscera sent in was 76, and the percentage of cases in which poison was found was 69·3. Arsenic was the drug employed in 53 cases, but aconite was not found in any case.

6. Only 42 samples of petroleum were examined during the period with which the report deals, against 162 during the previous twelve months. There had, however, been exceptional activity in this connection during 1881-82 in consequence of the detention of certain cargoes under the then new Petroleum Act. Forty-four samples of potable water were analysed for the civil and military authorities. The results obtained by Dr. Warden on an analysis of a sample of water drawn from the Khurruckpore Lake, in the district of Monghyr, are full of interest. The lake was constructed by the Court of Wards, at a large expense, to provide for the irrigation of the Maharajah of Durbhunga's estate. The analysis now made shows that dissolved mineral matter is present in the water in small quantities only, and its value as an irrigating agent is pro tanto impaired. This result could scarcely have been anticipated, as the water of the lake consists largely of stored-up rain-water, besides which it is also fed by springs.

7. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are again due to Dr. Warden for the excellent work done by him during the year. The remarks which he has placed on record regarding the valuable services rendered by Baboo Tara Prasanna Roy, F.C.S., F.I.C., Additional Chemical Examiner, and Baboo Ram Chandra Datta, F.C.S., First Assistant in the Laboratory, will be communicated to the Appointment Department.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the resolution and of the report be submitted to the Government of India in the Home Department for information.

Ordered also that a copy of the resolution be forwarded to the Surgeon-General, Bengal, for information and guidance, and for communication to the Chemical Examiner.

Ordered further that extracts, paragraph 28 of the report and so much of the resolution as has reference to that paragraph, be forwarded to the Appointment Department for information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

E. N. BAKER,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

LIBERALITY OF BABOO GOLUCK CHANDRA RAI, BAHADOOR.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.—EDUCATION.

Darjeeling, the 18th April 1884.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

A correspondence forwarded with letter No. 57CM, dated the 27th March 1884, from the Commissioner of the Chittagong Division, regarding the public spirit and liberality of Rai Goluck Chandra, Bahadoor.

There being a necessity for building a school-house for the Municipal School at Chittagong, the Government agreed to bear half the estimated cost of Rs. 10,000 for constructing a school-house, provided the other half were raised by subscriptions. Subscriptions to the extent of Rs. 3,000 were accordingly collected, leaving Rs. 2,000 still to be raised. On the occasion of the recent visit of the Lieutenant-Governor to Chittagong, Rai Goluck Chandra Bahadoor, a resident of that place, contributed this amount, and, in doing so, requested that the building should bear Mr. Rivers Thompson's name, and should, when necessary, be utilized for public meetings.

The Lieutenant-Governor has much pleasure in acknowled[illegible] spirit of Rai Goluck Chandra, and desires that an expression [illegible] thanks be conveyed to him for his liberal donation in the cau[illegible] With reference to the Rai Bahadoor's desire as to the name by w[illegible] should be known, the Lieutenant-Governor thinks it prefer[illegible] the designation the school now bears. He has no objection, h[illegible] erection in the building of a tablet briefly recording the gift [illegible] stances under which it was made. Mr. Rivers Thompson [illegible] undesirable to declare that the building may be utilized for the [illegible] of a school and hall for public meetings. If the building were [illegible] declared open for use as a Town Hall, the chief object for whi[illegible]ed would probably suffer.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. P. MACDONNELL,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

EXAMINATION OF CANDIDATES FOR APPOINTMENT TO THE SUBORDINATE EXECUTIVE SERVICE.

RESOLUTION.

APPOINTMENT DEPARTMENT.

Darjeeling, the 21st April 1884.

READ again—

Resolution of this Government, dated the 23rd February 1883, prescribing the conditions upon which appointments will in future be made to the Subordinate Executive Service in these Provinces.

Read also—

The Resolution of this Government, dated the 30th April 1883.

In modification of paragraph 7 of the Resolution of February 1883, the Lieutenant-Governor directs that the examination to be held in January 1885 will be open to all natives of India who have passed the Entrance Examination of the Calcutta University; or who can produce satisfactory evidence from competent authority of having received a good education up to the standard at least of the Entrance Examination. "Natives of India" include all persons born and domiciled within the dominions of Her Majesty in India, of parents habitually resident in India, and not established there for temporary purposes only. Certificates of health (for which a fee of Rs. 4 will be charged), respectability, and good moral character will be required from all candidates without exception or distinction, and no one will be permitted to appear who, on the date of his application to do so, has completed his 25th year. These applications, accompanied by the necessary certificates and a fee of Rs. 10, must be sent, not later than the 1st December next, to the Under-Secretary in the Appointment Department. To those whose applications to appear at the examination are rejected, the fee will be returned. The examination will be held about the middle of January next, on dates that will be published hereafter. The subjects will be as follows:—

FIRST DAY.

Morning.

An essay on a subject to be selected by the Examiners and given out at the time of the examination.

Time allowed, 2½ hours.

In awarding marks in this paper, the Examiners will take into consideration the following points:—

(a) the general treatment of the subject;
(b) spelling;
(c) hand-writing;
(d) composition.

No marks will be allowed for quotations from standard or other works.

Afternoon.

Letter-drafting, précis-writing, and a short translation from Bengali into English. For natives of Behar, the translation may be from Hindi instead of Bengali.

Europeans and Eurasians will be allowed to choose which of the above two languages they will be examined in.

Time allowed, 3 hours.

SECOND DAY.

Law—A paper of questions on Regulations I, VIII and XIX of 1793, Act VIII (B.C.) of 1869 and Mr. Justice Field's Introduction to the Regulations.

BEHAR.
Patna Divn.
26	Patna, April 19 '84	Nil	Weather—hot. Harvesting of rubbee completed. Small-pox still prevailing at the Sudder, Behar and Dinapore sub-divisions.
27	Gya, „ 19 „	Nil	Weather—warm, with south wind, clouds and thunder, but no rain. Hardly anything on the ground. Rubbee outturn coming into the market. Prices of food-grains falling slightly everywhere except in Nowada; the price of rice is stationary, but there is a tendency to rise slightly. Small-pox still widespread, but not very virulent. A few cases of cholera reported.
28	Shahabad, „ 19 „	Nil	Weather—hot and dry. Sugarcane, the only crop on the ground, is kept up by irrigation. Small-pox and sporadic cases of cholera in the town.
29	Durbhunga, „ 19 „	Nil	Weather—hot, sometimes cloudy. Rain very urgently required for paddy; mung, cheena and indigo sowings. Prices of food-grains rising in Tajpore and Madhubani. In Durbhunga, excepting rice, which is becoming dearer daily, prices of other grains stationary. Public health good.
30	Mozufferpore, „ 19 „	Nil	Weather—east and west winds blow alternately. Threshing of rubbee harvest in progress. Mung, cheena, and indigo are the only important crops on the ground. Public health good.
31	Sarun, „ 19 „	Nil	Weather—hot and bright, with strong west wind. Prospects of indigo on irrigated lands fair; on unirrigated lands decidedly bad. Cheena sowings continue. Early sowings coming on well. Sugarcane cuttings being laid out; prices of food-grains fairly steady. Small-pox of a mild type still prevalent, otherwise public health good.
32	Chumparun, „ 19 „	Nil	Weather—seasonable. Strong east wind prevailing during the last three days. Harvesting of rubbee crops completed with 8 annas outturn. Prices of food-grains continue almost stationary. Public health good. A few cases of small-pox reported.
Bhagulpore Divn.
33	Monghyr April 19 '84	Nil	Weather—very hot and dry. Easterly wind blowing during the last two days. Harvesting of rubbee almost completed. A few cases of small-pox reported from thana Barbigha.
34	Bhagulpore, „ 19 „	Nil	Weather—hot. Strong west winds till Friday, when a hail-storm passed over the country south of Sudder station. Friday night strong easterly wind with a few drops of rain. Cheena promises a good yield. Mung and paddy in the north are still green, but want rain much. Sugarcane good in the south, but has not germinated freely in the north. Prices of food-grains stationary. Health generally good. Small-pox still prevalent in the Sudder sub-division.
35	Purneah, „ 19 „	0·60	Weather—hot and dry. Rain much wanted for bhadoi and aghani crops which are partly sown. Mango dropping off. Public health fair.
36	Maldah, „ 19 „	0·03	Weather—hot and cloudy. A little rain and hail fell on the 18th. Prospects of boro paddy and indigo and mulberry are much injured by the long drought, and sowings of bhadoi paddy retarded for want of rain. Prices of food-grains ranged from 12 to 13 seers a rupee. A few cases of cholera and small-pox reported from the interior, otherwise general health good. Rivers are unusually low, and away from the rivers there is great scarcity of water. Advantage is being taken of the present drought for the improvement of numerous tanks throughout the district.
37	Santhal Pergns. „ 20 „	0·04	Weather—variable, windy and generally unsettled. Mohua crop being harvested; suffered slightly from high winds. Prices rising in Rajmehal. Cholera appears to be spreading in Pakour.

Increase.

Tons.

Coal 49

This increase is due to merchants laying in stock for sale.

Salt 29

This is due to insufficient water in the river.

Decrease.

Silk and silk cloth 22

This decrease is due to most of the silk booked by passenger train as parcel.

Edible grain 211

This is due to failure of late paddy crop.

Seeds of all sorts 36

A large quantity of mustard seed imported last year, on account of high rate the present bazar is dull.

Revenue stores 23

No ballast is carried by ordinary train.

DISTRICT ROAD FUND.

NOTIFICATION No. 178.

The 28th April 1884.

THE following annual accounts and abstracts of the reports of the Road Cess Committees of the districts of Cuttack, Pooree, and Balasore for the cess year 1882-83, together with the remarks thereon of the Commissioner of the Orissa Division, are published for general information.

G. F. E. S. NEILL, Major, M.S.C.,

Under-Secy to the Govt. of Bengal, P. W. Dept.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Cuttack, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1882-83.

DURING the year under report there has been an increase in the receipts from all sources of the Committee's income as compared with the preceding year. The total of the several heads amounted to Rs. 68,963, as against Rs. 61,949 in 1881-82. Owing to the dilatory procedure under the Certificate Act, only half the number of certificates for the recovery of the current arrears could be enforced within the year, and no steps taken for the enforcement of the certificates of the last instalment (28th April) as payments are scarcely made on the mere service of the notices.

The general maintenance and repair of almost all the district roads now in existence were fairly executed. One among them, Barnan-Kalamatia road, has been reported to have subsequently suffered from floods. It will, however, be put in good order during the current year. A few bridges and culverts, &c., were constructed, but no new line of district road was opened during the year.

The village roads in the Jajpore and Kendrapara sub-divisions were in thorough repair and ten new ones were constructed during the year. In the sudder sub-division such roads were generally kept in repair, and the number constructed in the year was more than double the number constructed in the above two sub-divisions.

The trees planted hitherto on the sides of the different roads in the district are doing well in general. Out of the total number of trees planted, 1,353 are fruit-bearing trees

The nursery garden at Chouliagunj, being considered altogether useless, was sold by auction on 22nd March 1883.

The different establishments under the Road Committee have, with a few exceptions, worked satisfactorily.

CUTTACK ROAD CESS OFFICE,
The 24th November 1883.

PURNO CHANDRA RAY,
Vice-Chairman.

T. JONES,
Chairman.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Pooree, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1882-83

THE road cess was levied at the maximum rate during the year under report. The percentage of collections on the current demand was 96 9, which was above the prescribed standard, i.e., 95 per cent.

A sum of Rs. 2,962 was spent on village roads, both by the District and Branch Committees, against Rs. 2,437 in the previous year.

Rupees 200 were spent in planting trees along the sides of Khoorda to Patnaikia Bazar road

The roads in the district are improving gradually.

The several establishments under the District Road Committee have done their work well.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Balasore, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1882-84.

THE new Cess Act has given rise to no complaints. The provisions of the Certificate Act for the speedy collection of arrear cesses will give much satisfaction if the shortening of the processes now under contemplation be put in practice.

The Sudder and Sub-Divisional Committees consisted of 19 and 16 members respectively. The attendance of the non-official members was not satisfactory. The Executive Engineer of the Balasore Division attended only one meeting of the Committee, and the Executive Engineer of the Brahmini-Byturni Division attended none.

The full sum allotted for village roads in the Bhuddruck sub-division was nearly expended, but there was a large saving under this head in the Balasore sub-division The request of villagers of both the sub-divisions, who came forward to ask for grants for the improvement of their village communications, were fully complied with, and in all cases but one, in the sudder sub-division, the advances made during the year were adjusted by actual work before the end of the year.

The arboricultural operations of the year were satisfactory. The nursery gardens were properly kept up, and the plants therein carefully preserved. The trees planted in the previous years are thriving well.

The different establishments under the Committee have given satisfaction in the discharge of their duties generally.

A. C. CHATTERJEE,

Treasury Officer.

Explanatory memorandum to accompany the annual accounts for 1882-83.

A.—The remaining Rs. 350, which has lapsed, was not drawn through oversight during the year. Early steps will be taken to procure fresh sanction from Government to the same.

B.—The increase of expenditure is due to the payment of cost of service of processes in advance in the shape of court-fee stamps under Board's circular No. 8 of August 1882, which was received subsequent to the submission of the budget for the year under report, and in consequence no provision had been made therein to meet this unexpected charge.

C.—In the budget for 1882-83 only half-provision was made for re-valuation work. The Committee had to pay the whole cost in the first instance, and as it has afterwards been decided that the cost for re-valuation should be borne by the Committee and Government in the proportion of two-thirds and one-third respectively, the Committee has to receive one-third of the cost defrayed by it, for which provision has been made in the current year's budget.

D.—The amounts originally provided, and the amounts subsequently sanctioned by the Commissioner in his No. 322C., dated the 5th October 1883, are as follows:—

	NAME OF ROAD.	Budget provision. Rs. A. P.	Extra sanction. Rs. A. P.

SHITUL NATH BOSE,

Deputy Collector in charge.

No. 118C., dated Cuttack, the 19th March 1884.

From—W. R. LARMINIE Esq., M.A C.S., Offg. Commissioner of the Orissa Division,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

I HAVE the honour to forward herewith, in original, the annual accounts and reports of the several Road Cess Committees of this division for the cess year 1882-83 for publication in the Calcutta Gazette under section 179 of Act IX (B. C.) of 1880.

2. The reports appear to have been prepared in accordance with the instructions conveyed in Government order No. 973A. of the 14th September 1880; and in the preparation of the accounts the classification prescribed in Government Resolution No. 201A. of the 26th February 1880 has, as far as practicable, been observed.

3. The duplicates of the accounts have, as reported by the Chairmen of the Committees, been directly forwarded to the Accountant-General, Bengal, as required by Government order No. 21A. of the 6th January 1881.

4. The actual receipts of the year, compared with those of the two previous years, are shown below, together with the estimate for the year under review:—

PARTICULARS.	ACTUAL. 1880-81.	ACTUAL. 1881-82.	ACTUAL. 1882-83.	Estimate, 1882-83.

Total Income	1,12,497	1,18,993	1,34,895	1,22,336

5. It will be observed that in the Pooree and Balasore accounts interest on arrear cess has been shown under 'Fees, fines and forfeitures," instead of under the sub-head "Miscellaneous," as it should have been. The Chairmen of these districts will be instructed to follow the correct procedure in future.

6. The percentages of the cess collections on the estimated receipts are as follow :—

DISTRICT.	Estimated receipts.	Collections.	Percentage.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Cuttack	63,715	65,910	103·4
Pooree	30,034	31,043	103 3
Balasore	28,587	34,788	121·6
Total ...	1,22,336	1,31,741	107·6

7. The collections were larger in all the three districts than the receipts estimated for.

8. The following contributions from Government towards the joint road cess and public works cess establishments under Government order No 2 of the 31st January 1879, are included in the sum of Rs. 9,992 shown against the sub-head "Miscellaneous" in paragraph 4 above :—

	Rs.
Cuttack	1,700
Pooree	700
Balasore	350

In Balasore the amount drawn is one-half of that sanctioned : the other half was allowed to lapse through an oversight. It is stated that "early steps will be taken to procure the necessary sanction to the amount being drawn in the current year." The Chairman will be directed to see that the sanction is obtained as early as possible.

9. The estimated and actual outlay, compared with the expenditure of the two previous years, stands thus :—

Total Disbursements	1,27,037	1,13,927	1,26,320	1,33,625

The sum of Rs. 19,286 shown against "Establishment and contingencies of office of collection" includes expenses incurred in connection with the re-valuation work.

10. The subjoined table shows the proposed and actual outlay on works during the year:—

District.	Original Works.		Repairs.		Total proposed.	Total actual.	Percentage
	Proposed.	Actual.	Proposed.	Actual.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Cuttack	9,266	8,728	32,553	31,350	41,819	40,077	95·83
Pooree	14,578	8,873	9,561	7,717	24,139	16,665	69 03
Balasore	6,350	6,237	14,853	13,277	21,203	19,514	92 03
Total ...	30,194	23,838	56,967	52,344	87,161	76,256	87·49

11. The following figures show the expenditure incurred on village roads in each district as compared with the previous year:—

District.	Grants, 1882-83.	Expenditure, 1882-83.	Expenditure, 1881-82.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Cuttack ..	7,672	7,326	4,964
Pooree ...	9,561	7,716	2,437
Balasore ...	4,500	4,010	1,465
Total ...	21,733	19,052	8,866

12. It appears that the Road Cess Committees of all the districts, except Cuttack, expended larger sums in improving village roads during the year under review than in the previous three years. The sum expended in Cuttack on this account exceeds that of the previous year, though it falls short of the amount spent in 1879-80 and 1880-81. I fear very much that the principles laid down by Government in regard to the allocation of funds for village roads are frequently ignored. A short time ago I was obliged to remonstrate with the Road Cess Committee of Cuttack for having directed their engineer to take complete charge of all village roads. Neither the Committee nor its Chairman seemed ever to have seen Government orders on this subject. If village communities will not take the trouble of looking after the repair and construction of their own roads, I do not think that public funds should be allotted for their special benefit.

13. In Cuttack all the district roads are said to have been maintained in fair working order during the year, except one, which is reported to have suffered heavily from floods. The village roads were all kept in thorough repair. Only a very few of them were injured in places by flood water.

14. As regards the Cuttack and Chandbally road, mentioned in paragraph 4 of the Cuttack Committee's report, I would draw attention to my No. 2370. of the 8th August last, and beg that early orders may be passed on the subject.

15. Notwithstanding the heavy floods, which did a great deal of damage to the roads in Balasore they are all said to be kept in fair order during the year under review.

16. The roads in Pooree are reported to be improving gradually, and considering its small income the Pooree Committee seems to have utilized the funds at its disposal more judiciously than those of Balasore and Cuttack.

17. In Balasore I am inclined to believe that for want of proper supervision the funds of the Committee are simply wasted. The Chairman is evidently of the same opinion, but apparently has taken no steps to remedy the evils he complains of. I shall certainly decline to pass any budget which does not provide for the appointment of a proper engineering staff.

18. I regret very much that the Cuttack Committee does not make some attempt to metal a certain number of miles of road every year. The sums spent annually on earthwork seem unusually heavy.

19. As regards the working of Act VII (B.C.) of 1880 in connection with the realization of cesses, the Collectors of Cuttack and Balasore have written in the same strain as in previous years, complaining of its dilatory procedure. The former, writing on the subject, says— "Owing to the time required for entering payments in the demand registers, for writing out a large number of notices and certificates, serving them upon the defaulters, and the further time that the law (section 10 of Act VII of 1880) afterwards allows them in which to make objections, only half the number of certificates for recovery of the current arrears could be enforced during the year, and no steps for the enforcement of the certificates for the last instalment (28th April) could be taken, as payments are rarely made at once on the mere service of the notices in this district."

20. The Collector of Balasore says that "the provisions of the Certificate Act for the speedy collection of arrear cesses will give much satisfaction, if the shortening of the processes now under contemplation be put in practice." This, of course, alludes to paragraph 21 of the Board's report to Government on the road and public works cess operations for the cess year 1881-82.

21. My own views on the subject will be found in the following extract from a report which I recently submitted to the Board in compliance with a special requisition. I said:—"The difficulty in collecting cesses is, as far as my experience goes, chiefly experienced in regard to lakhraj holdings. If Collectors make suitable arrangements for the payment at the same time and in the same place of cesses and Government revenue, arrears of the one demand will generally be found to exist only contemporaneously with those of the other in the case of revenue-paying estates. It is therefore practically necessary to alleged difficulty of collection in regard to revenue-free estates. Where of these is complete, I do not think there is any necessity for a more s than that allowed by the existing law. The delay of a month is a matter portance, and the costs involved by a longer delay should and do act as a terrent to persistent neglect. If the proprietor of a small holding finds that me Rs. 2 in addition to the few annas due as cesses in consequence of his will probably be more careful in the future, and I have always found that by enure on which the cess was due payment was quickly secured. Much of lained of was due to the practice of, in the first instance, attaching other ging to the defaulter, this system of course admitting of various objections o ownership, which could not be urged in regard to the defaulting tenure owever, inclined to believe that, if the collecting officers are methodical in their pt in the issue of certificates, the delays in collection will gradually become d that all necessity for any special procedure beyond that now allowed will owever it be found that proprietors remain persistently in arrear, it might nclude the cost of serving the preliminary notice under section 10 of the and shown upon the certificate. This would probably tend to ensure still y; but, as I stated above, I would place greater reliance upon a good system ffices than on any special enactment which might lead to the existence of n those which it was intended to remove."

NOTICE is hereby given that the proprietary right of Government, as specified in the conditions of sale below to the undermentioned estates situate in the district of Balasore, will be put up to sale at the Balasore Collectorate on Friday the 2nd June 1884, corresponding with 22nd Joistho 1291 Umli.

CONDITIONS OF SALE.

1*st*.—The estate to be sold to the highest bidder above the upset price. The purchaser of this estate will be considered as the proprietor of the estates, and the entire proprietary right of Government in such estate will be transferred to him, subject to the revenue fixed in perpetuity.

2*nd*.—The sale to be subject to existing leases and to the rights conferred by the settlement proceedings, and by the laws in force; and the purchasers to be bound to respect the rights of resident cultivators who have signed the schedule of assessment prepared by the revenue authorities.

3*rd*.—If the amount of purchase money do not exceed Rs. 100, the whole amount to be paid down at once.

4*th*.—If the amount of purchase money exceed Rs. 100, one-fourth of the amount bid to be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the 15th day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or, if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding office day, the sale to be cancelled (the sum deposited being forfeited to Government), and the estate to be again put up to sale at the risk of the defaulting purchaser, after issue of advertisement, as in the case of original sale.

PART III.

Act of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

THE following Act, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, received the assent of His Honor on the 17th March 1884, and having received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 22nd April 1884, is hereby published for general information :—

ACT No. II OF 1884.

An Act to amend the Calcutta Tramways Act, 1880.

WHEREAS it is expedient to facilitate the construction and regulate the working of Tramways within such portions of Calcutta as are not situate within the local limits of the town as defined in the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1876, and to make due provision for their general management, supervision, and control; and whereas it is necessary to amend the Calcutta Tramways Act, 1880, for the purposes aforesaid: It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

1. This Act shall be read with, and taken as part of, "The Calcutta Tramways Act, 1880."

Construction and commencement of Act.

And it shall come into force from the date on which it may be published in the Calcutta Gazette with the assent of the Governor-General.

2. "Calcutta" includes all places within the local limits of the Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, but not the area included within the fortifications of Fort William.

Definition of "Calcutta."

3. All tramways constructed in Calcutta, but situate beyond the local limits of the town as defined in the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1876, shall be subject to the general management, regulation and control of the Local Government: and the Local Government shall in this behalf exercise all the rights, powers, functions and authorities which would, under the provisions of the Calcutta Tramways Act, 1880, have been exercised by the Corporation, if such tramways had been constructed wholly within the local limits of the town as defined by the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1876.

Tramways constructed beyond local limits of the town to be subject to Local Government.

4. Nothing in this Act shall be construed so as to give the Corporation any control, power, or authority in respect of any tramway or part of a tramway constructed outside the limits of the town as defined by the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1876.

Corporation not to have control in respect of tramway outside limits of the town.

5. The provisions of this Act and of the Calcutta Tramways Act, 1880, shall apply to any tramway that may have been constructed before this Act comes into force, notwithstanding any omission or irregularity in publishing any notice required to be published under section four of the said Calcutta Tramways Act, 1880.

Retrospective effect of Act as to tramways already constructed.

C. H. REILY,

Asst. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal,

Legislative Dept.

,, 25th	32	12 mo ..	1st ..	500	ditto ...	0 3 0	Rangalál Mukharji, Ráhutá, 24-Pergunnahs.	This work contains an account of the celebrated Sannyási, who is stated to have remained buried for forty days in the time of Ranjit Sing of Lahore, and to have come out alive after that period. The writer is of opinion that there is no reason to doubt that miraculous powers may be acquired by Jog, but he thinks that Jog cannot yield practical results, and generally unfits men for the active duties of life. He therefore regards with misgiving the tendency which is now visible among educated Hindus to practise Jog, and to take an exaggerated view of the advantages which may be derived from it.	2607

Sept., 20th	10	12mo ...	1st ...	500	Printed	0 2 0	Chandranáth Banerji, Kumirá, Khulná.	The author describes India as a country which has from a remote period occupied a high position in the world, and appeals to the Empress of India to judge for what fault the people of such a country have had to witness and lament the imprisonment of an Indian worthy like Babu Surendranath Banerji. The author speaks rather unfavourably of the English in India, and thinks that the honour of the country is not quite safe under their rule.	2647

In preparing this new version of Euclid the author has followed Simson's translation as revised by Potts and Todhunter. In explaining the process of working out each proposition and theorem, the author has followed Professor De Morgan's plan of stating each step in the argument in a separate paragraph. He has also adopted certain principles which will, he hopes, render his work more clear to the student than all other versions of Euclid now existing in Bengali. Copious notes and exercises are given.	2718

APPOINTMENT OF MINISTERIAL OFFICERS IN THE PATNA DIVISION.

No. 220G, dated Bankipore, the 1st April 1884.

From—F. M. HALLIDAY, Esq., Commissioner of the Patna Division,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Appointment Dept.

WITH reference to Government order No. 5646A, dated 28th December 1880, I have the honour to submit herewith a statement showing the number of vacancies, both acting and permanent, that occurred during the past year in the several offices in this Division.

2. The total number of vacancies which occurred during the last year in the several offices and departments in this Division was 456. These vacancies were thus distributed—

In Revenue and Magistrates' Offices	107
In the Road Cess and Municipal Offices	54
In the Police Department	291
In the Registration Department	4
	456

The above appointments were filled up in the several offices and departments as follows :—

	By Beharees	By Bengalees.
In the Revenue and Magistrates' Offices ...	88	19
In the Road Cess and Municipal Offices ...	47	7
In the Police Department	284	7
In the Registration Department	4	0
	423	33

It will thus be seen that 92·7 per cent. of the vacancies were filled up by the natives of Behar, while 7·2 per cent. of the appointments were given to Bengalees, including those domiciled in Behar. Of the 33 appointments filled up by Bengalees, 15 were cases of promotion or transfer in persons appointed being already in the service.

Statement showing the number of vacancies, acting or permanent, that occurred in the Districts of the Patna Division during the year 1883.

Division.	District.	Number of vacancies both acting and permanent.	How filled up.		Remarks explaining why preference was given to Bengalees.
			By Beharees.	By Bengalees.
Patna ...	Commissioner's Office.	6	2	4(a)	(a) Two of these were apprentices attached to this office. The third was appointed to the post of Head Assistant, as he had already been employed in the Division as 1st Excise Inspector, and the fourth man was domiciled in North-West Provinces and was under Government employ at Agra.
	Patna	In the office of the Collector and Magistrate 19	18	1(b)	(b) A Bengalee license tax clerk was appointed in the Barh sub-division, as he was found duly qualified for the post.
	Do.	Road Cess and Municipal Office 39	34	5(c)	(c) The post of an estimator having fallen vacant in the District Engineer's office, a Bengalee was selected to fill the post, considering his experience in and competency for the work, and that he served his apprenticeship in the office, and two were domiciled in Behar.
	Do.	Registration Office ... 3 Police Department ... 3	3 2	..... 1(d)	(d) This officer, who officiated as clerk in the Commissioner's office temporarily, was subsequently employed as an apprentice in the District Superintendent's Office. Is a domiciled Bengalee and was appointed to act for the 6th clerk in the District Superintendent's Office on leave, with the sanction of District Magistrate, but since confirmed, the permanent incumbent having resigned.
	Gya	In the office of the Collector and Magistrate 17	15	2(e)	(e) Received the posts on promotion, having been already employed in the office (Collectorate).
	Do.	Road Cess and Municipal Office 5	4	1(f)	(f) This man was employed in the Municipality, as he is an old resident in the Behar district; knows the vernacular of the district, was serving as a clerk in the Magistrate's office, and got the appointment by way of promotion.
	Do.	Police Department 91	90*	1(g)	(g) This appointment was that of 2nd clerk in the District Superintendent's office, and was given to a Bengalee because no competent Beharee could be had, though several candidates appeared. The man appointed was a domiciled Bengalee and educated at Patna. * Out of this, 9 posts are still vacant, which the Inspector-General of Police states will in all probability be filled up by Beharees.
	Shahabad ...	In the office of the Collector 17	15	2(h)	(h) Of these, one was appointed, as he was senior apprentice in the office, and the other was so appointed to officiate as head clerk during the latter's absence on sick leave, as he was already employed as permanent Treasury Accountant.
	Ditto ...	Road Cess Office ... 1	1	.....	.....
	Ditto ...	Registration Office ... 1	1	.....	.....
	Ditto ...	Police Department ... 2	.....	2(i)	(i) One of these men was appointed by the Inspector-General, as he was an apprentice in his office for a long time, and had done his work satisfactorily. The man has since been discharged. The other was appointed by the District Superintendent with the permission of Inspector-General in the Executive Force of the district.
	Mozufferpore	In the office of the Collector 18	15	3(j)	(j) One case was a transfer. Two were reappointments to posts of clerks previously employed, but temporarily abolished.
	Ditto ...	Road Cess Office ... 3	2	1(k)	(k) One Beharee appointed as Road Cess Overseer having resigned, a Bengalee was selected in his place, as no Beharee having the qualification of overseer had applied for the post.
	Durbhunga ...	Police Department ... 5	5	.....	.....
		In the office of the Collector and Magistrate 12	10	2(l)	(l) Of these, one was appointed to the post of head clerk of the Collectorate, as the Collector found him to be unquestionably the best clerk in the district.
	Ditto ...	Municipal Office .. 4	4	.....	.....
		Police Department ... 27	27	.....	.....
	Sarun ...	In the office of the Collector and Magistrate ... 6	4	2(m)	(m) The two Bengalees appointed in the Sarun Magistrate's office were domiciled in Behar.
	Ditto ...	Municipal Office .. 1	1	.....	.....
		Police Department ... 140	138*	2(n)	(n) One of these men was appointed to act as second clerk in the District Superintendent's office for two-and-a-half months, there having been at the time no Beharee available for the proper discharge of the work. The other man in the Executive force was received by transfer from Rajshahye. * Out of this, 6 are residents of Bellia, North Western Provinces.
	Chumparun ...	In the office of the Collector and Magistrate 12	9	3(o)	(o) Of these, two fell vacant in the Magistrate's office and one in the Collectorate. One was appointed to act as head clerk and sheristadar of the Magistracy during the absence on deputation of the permanent incumbent on license tax duty, as the nominee had worked for eight years as second clerk, and during this period of his service acted as head clerk on several occasions. The second man was appointed to act as second clerk of the Magistrate's office in absence of any qualified Beharee candidate. The third case is that of the Sudder license tax clerk, who is each year appointed to the post since the introduction of license tax, as he has experience and insight in the work of the department.
		Road Cess Office ... 1	1	.....	.....
		Police Department ... 23	22	1(p)	(p) A fifth grade Sub-Inspector (Bengalee) was appointed by the Inspector-General, as he was a passed candidate for a Sub-Inspectorship, there having been no local candidate for the post at that time.

Patna Divn.	26	Patna,	April 26 '84	Nil	Weather—strong east wind. Crops all gathered. Rain very urgently required for cheena and mung Small-pox still prevailing at the Sudder and Behar sub-divisions. Sporadic cases of cholera in the town.
	27	Gya,	„ 26 „	Nil	Weather—variable; east wind prevailing; clouds and thunder, but no rain. Rubbee harvest gathered in. In some outlying places the outturn has not been as good as was hoped; but over most of the district it has been very fair, from 8 to 14 annas, altogether a little below the average. Small-pox still widespread.
	28	Shahabad,	„ 26 „	Nil	Weather—very hot, with east wind. The mango crop is almost lost. Cholera reported from the Buxar sub-division, and sporadic cases of the disease have occurred in Arrah.

	29	Durbhunga,	„ 26 „	·5	Weather—cloudy with high wind, sometimes very hot. ·66 of rain reported from Madhubani. It has been very beneficial to the standing crops of dhan, mung and cheena. Prices rising. Small-pox, cholera and cattle-disease have broken out in a few villages in Madhubani.
	30	Mozufferpore,	„ 26 „	Nil	Weather—the rain at Sitamurhi has been very beneficial, but more is wanted. No rain in the other sub-divisions, and tillage much hindered in consequence. Rice being imported into Mozufferpore and the town of Hajipore. Small-pox is severe in the town of Mozufferpore.
		Sitamurhi	...	0·86
		Hajipore	...	Nil
	31	Sarun,	„ 26 „	Nil	Weather—changeable, with easterly wind towards the end of the week. There was a severe hailstorm on Friday at Gopalgunge. Prospects of indigo on irrigated lands fair; on unirrigated lands decidedly bad. Where wells exist, cheena coming on well. Sugarcane cuttings being laid out. Rain wanted for preparation of lands for the bhadoi crops. Prices of food-grains fairly steady. New grains coming into the market and selling at favourable prices. Small-pox of a mild type still prevalent in Sewan, otherwise public health good.

	32	Chumparun,	„ 26 „	0 43	Weather—cloudy, with strong east wind. Light shower of rain fell on the 22nd. No important crops on the ground. Preparation of lands commenced for bhadoi sowings. Prices generally remain steady. Public health good. A few cases of small-pox reported
Bhagulpore Divn.	33	Monghyr	April 26 '84	A little rain on the 22nd.	Weather—strong east winds. No crops on the ground. Prices of food-grains stationary. Public health good.
	34	Bhagulpore,	„ 26 „	·14	Weather—unusually cold, with easterly winds. Sky generally overcast. Slight shower of rain on two days at the Sudder station. Half an inch at Banka, heavy rain at Sultangunge Sugarcane and cheena doing well. Mung and paddy seedlings in the north doing well. Ploughing going on. Prices stationary. Small-pox still prevalent in the Sudder sub-division.
	35	Purneah,	„ 26 „	0·65	Weather—cooler, with strong easterly wind. Prospects of crops much improved. State of crops is very backward. Public health fair.
	36	Maldah,	„ 26 „	1·80	Weather—cloudy with severe storm and gale in the afternoon of the 22nd. Some hail fell. The rain has done good to boro paddy, indigo and mulberry, and has facilitated sowing of bhadoi paddy. The gale caused great destruction of houses, trees, and mangoes, as well as loss of several lives in its course from west to east through the centre of the district. Prices of food-grains were 12 to 13 seers a rupee. A few cases of cholera reported, otherwise general health good.
	37	Southal Pergha,	„ 27 „	1·34	Weather—rotatory storms with hail almost daily. Wind variable. Mohua crop all gathered. Lands being ploughed where rain has fallen. Prices fairly stationary. Cholera abating.

42	Lohardugga, April 18 '84	Nil	Weather—hot and at times cloudy, with occasional dust storms, but no rain. Rain much wanted for ploughing. Mohua crop is a very full one every where. At head-quarters general health good, but in the Palamow sub-division small-pox is still reported. Prices steady.
43	Singbhoom, „ 28 „	Nil	Weather—unsettled; partially clouded warm and muggy. No crops on the ground. Mango has almost entirely failed. Rain greatly needed for ploughing. General health good, except a few cases of cholera in one outpost.
44	Manbhoom, „ 9 „	0·02	Weather—comparatively cool and damp with southerly and easterly winds.
	Govindpore ...	0·86	There have apparently been heavy showers in the neighbourhood, but very little rain has fallen at Purulia. Sugarcane is being planted, and ploughing has commenced in places. Mohua crop good, mango, indifferent. Course rice sold on the 26th in the Purulia market at 21 seers for the rupee. Both cholera and small-pox seem to be abating.

CALCUTTA,
The 28th April 1884.

JOHN ELIOT,
Meteorological Reporter to the Govt. of Bengal.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL DURING THE WEEK ENDING 25TH APRIL 1884.

THE past week has been one of almost continuous slight atmospheric disturbance. The intense heat and dryness which has characterized the weather in Bengal during the past three or four weeks began to give way at the end of last week. The sea winds at the head of the Bay increased in strength and displaced the dry westerly winds over nearly the whole of Bengal. The air became consequently much more humid, and the sky more or less clouded. Frequent thunderstorms occurred in every part of the Province except in Chutia Nagpur and the south and central districts of Behar. The rainfall of the week has hence been unusually large for the season. It has also been fairly distributed, so that by far the greater part of the Province has received twice to thrice the amount of the average rainfall of the week. Temperature has consequently been very considerably reduced, and was several degrees below the normal temperature of the week in every part of the Province. It will thus be seen that the meteorological conditions of the past week are the reverse of those which have prevailed for several weeks. These conditions were increased pressure, diminished temperature, increased humidity, unusual prevalence of southerly and easterly winds, and abundant rainfall.

Atmospheric pressure.—The barometer oscillated within rather narrow limits during the past week. It was low on the 20th and 21st and again on the 23rd and 24th over the Province; but was on the whole considerably above the average. The changes of pressure were in many cases local, and apparently due to the action and effects of local thunderstorms. The excess of pressure was least in the area of least rainfall during the week, that is, in Orissa, Chutia Nagpur and the adjacent districts of South-West Bengal. Over that area the mean pressure of the week was only ·01″ above the normal pressure. In East Bengal, North Bengal and the eastern districts of South-West Bengal, the mean pressure of the week was ·03″ above the average, in North Behar ·06″ and in Central Behar ·03″. At present Orissa, Chutia Nagpur and the adjacent districts of South-West Bengal form an area of deficient pressure relatively to the remainder of the Province. How far this will affect the distribution of the rains at the commencement of the south-west monsoon remains to be seen.

Temperature.—A marked result of the rainfall of the week was decreased temperature. Maximum temperatures exceeding 105° were only registered at three stations—Dehree, Chyebassa, and Gya. The highest readings of the maximum thermometer at these stations were 106° at Dehree, 105·9° at Chyebassa, and 105·2° at Gya. The change in the temperature is shown clearly by the following comparison :—

METEOROLOGICAL DISTRICT.	Mean temperature for week ending April 18th.	Mean temperature for week ending April 25th.	Decrease of mean temperature.
Orissa	85·1	83·9	1·2
South-West Bengal	88·4	82 8	5·6
East Bengal	83·3	77·2	6·1
North Bengal	84·1	76·3	7·8
North Behar	86·0	81·7	4·3
South Behar	88·6	84·3	4·3
Chutia Nagpur	85·9	82 2	3·7

The mean temperature of the week is considerably below the average. The deficiency is least in Orissa and the 24-Pergunnahs, for which it slightly exceeds 1°. In Central Bengal it varies from 5° to 7°, and in East Bengal from 4° to 6°. The deficiency is almost as marked in Behar and Chutia Nagpur, where it ranges from 2·7° at Hazaribagh to 4·5° at Purneah.

Winds.—The dry westerly winds which have formed a prominent feature of the meteorology of the Province during the past three or four weeks gave way almost entirely at the end of last week and were replaced by easterly winds. Westerly winds were only felt early in the week in Chutia Nagpur and the south-western districts of Behar. Hence southerly winds have prevailed in South Bengal during the week, and winds ranging between south and east over North Bengal and Behar.

Humidity.—The air has been very much damper during the whole week in every part of the Province, excepting Chutia Nagpur, and the Shahabad and Gya districts of South Behar, where the effect of the westerly winds was observed until the 21st, after which the air became damper. The only very low humidities that were registered during the week were—

Hazaribagh	8 per cent.	on the	21st.
Ranchee	13 „	„	19th.
Gya	14 „	„	21st.
Dehree	15 „	„	21st.

The following table illustrates the great change which occurred in the humidity of the air in Central Bengal and Behar :—

Stations.	Average humidity for weeking ending 18th April.	Average humidity for week ending 25th April.	Average humidity for April.
Purneah	33	57	49
Bankipore	24	53	36
Gya	16	33	37
Berhamporo	38	65	57
Burdwan	38	69	56
Calcutta	48	68	65

Rainfall.—The rainfall returns indicate that frequent thunderstorms with heavy rain occurred in East and North Bengal and the greater part of South-West Bengal. These parts of the Province have received from two to four times the average amount of rain. The rainfall was less plentiful and was irregularly distributed in Orissa and the greater part of North and East Behar, but was on the average slightly in excess of the normal amount. The only districts which have received little or no rain are Chutia Nagpur, and the Patna, Gya, Sarun, and Shahabad districts of Behar and the Pooree district in Orissa. The rainfall in these districts is usually very small, barely averaging four-tenths of an inch for the month of April. A reference to the weekly report will show that the rainfall was most abundant in the Chittagong, Burrisal, Dacca, Jessore, Moorshedabad, Bogra, Pubna, and Balasore districts. Some very heavy rainfalls occurred during the storms. The largest amounts registered for 24 hours were—

Micklegunge in the Cooch Behar district	..	3·79 inches	registered on the	24th.
Noakhally in the Noakholly district	..	3·51 ,,	,, ,,	19th.
Fenny ditto ditto	..	3·32 ,,	,, ,,	19th.
Munshigunge in the Dacca district	..	2·91 ,,	,, ,,	23rd.
Julpigoree in the Julpigoree district	..	2·86 ,,	,, ,,	24th.

The 18th was a day of general rainfall in South-West, East and North Bengal, the 21st of general rainfall in South-West Bengal, Behar and North Bengal, and the 22nd in Bengal generally.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 25th of April 1884 :—

MEMORANDA.

THE principal features to be deduced from the vital statistics of the first class Municipalities in Bengal for the week ending 12th April 1884, as presented in the statement appended to this memoranda, are the following :—

(1) That births and deaths were registered in these Municipalities at the rates of 22·2 and 45·5 per 1,000, respectively, against 26·2 and 47·7 per 1,000, respectively, during the preceding week ending 5th April, indicating a large decrease in the record of both events, particularly of births

(2) That the Municipalities which returned the highest proportions of births and deaths were—

Births.	Ratio per mille.	Deaths.	Ratio per mille.
Midnapore	35·6	Gya	79·2
Durbhanga	33·0	Suburbs of Calcutta ...	75·1
Kishnaghur	32·1	Bhagulpore	69·7
Santipore	31·5	Utterpara	56·6
		Patna	54·2

		Serampore	47·1
		Howrah	43·3
		Beauleah	42·0
		Santipore	40·3
		Naraingunge... ...	37·2
		Poori	36·4
		Burdwan	33·6
		Hughli	32·2
		Chupra	32·2

(3) That the mean mortality from the various death-causes, specified in the annexed statement, in comparison with the mortality in the preceding week, stood as follows :—

	Ratio per mille during the weeks ending—
	12th April 1884.	5th April 1884.
Cholera	15·2	13·3
Small-pox	6·2	6·6
Fevers	12·5	14·7
Bowel-complaints	3·9	4·8
Injury	·2	·5
Other causes	7·5	7·8

The main points disclosed by the above figures are that, the mortality from cholera had increased considerably, and that the fatality from fever and bowel-complaints had declined to some extent.

(4) That while the fatality from injury was nowhere high, the rest of the death-causes exhibited their greatest activity in the undermentioned Municipalities :—

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community taken in February 1881 was not reliable, owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The direction of the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o overcast, g gloomy, d drizzling rain, t thunder, p passing temporary showers, ⁄ strong wind, ≤ lightning, ⋈ thunderstorm.

NOTIFICATION.

The 29th April 1884.—It is hereby notified for general information that the Lieutenant-Governor intends, in the exercise of the powers vested in him by section 180 of Act IX (B.C.) of 1880, to confirm the following bye-laws, which have been framed by the District Road Committee of Mymensingh at a meeting, unless good reasons be shown to the contrary within one month from the publication of this notification.

Bye-laws.

I. Any one making or causing any obstruction, by means of buildings, huts, fences or otherwise, on any roadway or side-drain, or by tethering cattle upon, or so that they can stray upon any roadway or side-drain, or by leaving carts or cattle standing without a driver, so as to cause inconvenience or danger to the public or to any person, or by stacking straw or jute, or by exposing goods for sale, or by depositing rubbish or the like, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10, and to a further fine not exceeding Rs. 2 for every day on which the offence is continued.

II. Any one making or causing any obstruction in or to any waterway or drain or channel running alongside of any roadway, or in the immediate vicinity of any bridge or culvert, constructed or being constructed on any road cess road, so as to injure, or tend to injure, such structure or roadway, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10, and to a further fine not exceeding Rs. 2 for every day on which the offence is continued.

III. Any one cutting or damaging trees planted by, or under charge of, the Road Committee, or damaging fences on any roadway or its slope, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10.

IV. Any one committing a nuisance on any roadway, or in its immediate vicinity, or in any side excavations or under any bridge, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 2.

V. Any one excavating a hole, pit, tank, or well without the permission of the District Engineer, within 15 feet from the bottom of any road slope, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10, and to a further fine not exceeding Rs. 2 for every day on which such hole, pit, &c. shall not be filled up after due notice given.

VI. Any one driving any vehicle, cattle, or elephant along any road during its construction, or until such time as it is declared open by the District Engineer by a public notice given in such manner as the Committee may prescribe, and any one taking an elephant over any wooden bridge, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs 10.

VII. During the course of repairing any district road or bridge it shall be lawful for the person in charge of such repairs to stop traffic from passing over such roadway as is undergoing repair, provided he leaves some portion of the roadway over which traffic can pass. Whoever wilfully disobeys any such order shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10.

VIII Any one steeping jute in any roadside drain, the property of the Road Committee, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 10, and to a further fine not exceeding Rs. 2 for every day on which the offence is continued.

IX. Whoever being in possession of, or having control over, any trees, bamboos or hedges overhanging or obstructing any road or side-drain or slopes, and being required to cut down or trim such trees, &c., or otherwise remove the obstruction, shall comply with such requisition within seventy-two hours. In default, it shall be lawful for the Road Committee to have the obstruction removed at the cost of the owner up to a maximum of Rs. 10 leviable as a fine.

X. Every driver of a carriage or cart, or every person in charge of cattle or elephants, must keep to his left while passing another vehicle or cattle or elephant moving in the opposite direction along any district road. The penalty for infringement shall be a fine not exceeding Rs. 2.

XI. Every carriage plying between dusk and dawn shall carry two conspicuous lights, and every cart, palki or other vehicle and every elephant shall carry one conspicuous light. The penalty for infringement shall be a fine not exceeding Rs. 2.

Bhaugulpore, the 30th April 1884. W. H. D'OYLY, Collector.

NOTICE is hereby given that the proprietary right of Government, as specified in the conditions of sale below to the undermentioned estates situate in the district of Balasore, will be put up to sale at the Balasore Collectorate on Friday the 2nd June 1884, corresponding with 22nd Joistho 1291 Umli.

CONDITIONS OF SALE.

1*st*.—The estate to be sold to the highest bidder above the upset price. The purchaser of this estate will be considered as the proprietor of the estates, and the entire proprietary right of Government in such estate will be transferred to him, subject to the revenue fixed in perpetuity.

2*nd*.—The sale to be subject to existing leases and to the rights conferred by the settlement proceedings, and by the laws in force; and the purchasers to be bound to respect the rights of resident cultivators who have signed the schedule of assessment prepared by the revenue authorities.

3*rd*.—If the amount of purchase money do not exceed Rs. 100, the whole amount to be paid down at once.

4*th*.—If the amount of purchase money exceed Rs. 100, one-fourth of the amount bid to be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the 15th day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or, if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding office day, the sale to be cancelled (the sum deposited being forfeited to Government), and the estate to be again put up to sale at the risk of the defaulting purchaser, after issue of advertisement, as in the case of original sale.

DISTRICT ROAD FUND.

NOTIFICATION No. 200.

The 6th May 1884.

THE following annual accounts and abstracts of the reports of the Road Cess Committees of the districts of Monghyr, Bhagulpore, Purneah, Maldah, and Sonthal Pergunnahs, for the cess year 1882-83, together with the remarks thereon of the Commissioner of the Bhagulpore Division, are published for general information.

G. F. E. S. NEILL, Major, M.S.C.,
Under-Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, P. W. D.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Monghyr, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1882-83.

THE collections during the year were not satisfactory, they having amounted to 87 per cent., against 97 during the previous year. The collections thus fell short by 10 per cent., and this decrease is mainly due to laxity in carrying out the certificate procedure in consequence of want of sufficient staff and other similar reasons. The work of re-valuation has been completed, and the collection under it has been commenced during the year. An increase of Rs. 30,000 in the demand has been effected under this re-valuation.

All the meetings held by the members of the District Road Committee during the year were attended by a sufficient number of members to form quorums, and consequently business was regularly transacted at each of them. The attendance of the mofussil members was not satisfactory, as reported in previous years.

The members of the Begooserai Branch Committee were regular in their attendance, but this cannot be said of the Jamui Branch Committee, the members of which have neglected their duties in this respect. Some of the members, however, of this Branch Committee have attended regularly and afforded much assistance. The European members as well as some of the native members of the Beguserai Branch Committee took a lively interest in their work, and rendered great assistance in carrying out and supervising the numerous petty works annually executed.

Great improvements are annually made in the village communications, for which purpose grants have been made to the Branch Committees.

Tree-planting has been attended to by the Committee. Several miles of roads have been planted with fruit trees, and it is hoped that, within the next few years, most of the important roads under the Committee will be well supplied with trees.

A greater portion of the outlay during the year under review consisted in the maintenance and repairs of the existing roads. Among the new works undertaken by the Committee, there is none which needs any special mention, except the bridging of the Sheikhpura to Sekandra road. On the whole, the state of the roads in the district is generally good.

The several establishments under the Road Committee have worked satisfactorily.

G. THOMAS, Vice-Chairman, District Road Committee.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Bhagulpore, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1882-83.

THE Cess Act has worked well in this district. Inconvenience is, however, experienced when a Vice-Chairman, who is a non-official, leaves the district or head-quarters temporarily, sometimes for two or three months. The appointment of an acting Vice-Chairman should be provided for in the new Act.

The members of the District and Branch Committees have generally taken a good deal of interest in their work

The District Committee have done a good deal of useful work in the way of completing the bridging of roads during the past cess year. All the timber bridges on the important and much used road from Bhagulpore to Amerpore, and on that from Amerpore to Banka, have been thoroughly restored with new and in places with old but serviceable sâl timber. This work has been completed in a satisfactory manner at a cost of Rs. 9,589. The bridging of the road from Mudchpoorah to Sonbursa, which was left incomplete in the previous year, has been completed. The bridging of the road from Milki to Sonbursa was commenced and completed during the year. A new bridge has been built over Tilabeh river at a cost of Rs. 7,055, half of which was contributed by the Monghyr District Committee. Similarly the bridging on two or three other roads has been completed during the year.

Very little has been done in the way of tree-planting during the year owing to want of funds, Rs. 4,127 having been expended by the District and the Branch Road Cess Committees. At present 7,600 trees have been planted out, and this is over and above the number of trees which have grown sufficiently to require no more looking after. The Maharajah of Durbhunga has planted fruit trees along several miles of the Kanowli road, but they have been planted too far from the roadway, apparently with the object of preventing disputes about ownership in future years.

The several establishments under the Committee have done their work well, and the books and returns of the Committee were found in good order.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Purneah, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1882-83.

THE Act works smoothly enough in this district, and the people are pleased with the improvement that has taken place in the communications. There was no special meeting of the District Road Committee held during the year, but eight ordinary meetings took place; and the working of the Committee was satisfactory. There was no quorum at one of the meetings held at Kissengunge and at one held in Arrareah. Most of the members took great interest in the road cess matters, and many of them gave valuable assistance in carrying out repairs to district and village roads. The Executive Engineer, Bhagulpore Division, and another non-official member did not attend any of the meetings, but the average attendance of members was fair.

All the district roads were repaired last year almost up to the budget allotment, and the existing bridges received due attention. Of the nine inspection bungalows, one was renewed and seven thoroughly repaired; the remaining one needed no repair.

All the village roads were repaired during the year, with the exception of a very few; and the total expenditure on this account was Rs. 9,170.

Trees were planted on roads Nos. 14 and 5, and near inspection bungalows, at a total cost of Rs. 137. The existing trees on district and village roads also received due attention.

The several establishments under the Committee have, on the whole, worked satisfactorily.

PURNEAH,
The 22nd November 1883. } Vice-Chairman, District Road Committee.

Abstract of a report by the Chairman of the District Road Cess Committee, Maldah, on the Committee's operations for the cess year 1882-83.

THE collection work during the year has been satisfactory. The amount of road cess unrealized at the close of the preceding year was Rs. 1,574 to which the demand for the year Rs. 28,883 being added, and Rs. 122 previously paid in advance being deducted, the net amount of road cess realizable within the year stood at Rs. 30,335. Of this sum Rs. 27,947 has been collected and Rs. 38 remitted, leaving an outstanding balance of Rs. 2,350 at the end of the year. To this amount has to be added the sum of Rs. 201 paid in advance, and the total road cess levied in the district amounted to Rs. 28,148, the percentage of which on the current demand was 97·4. The demand for the current year has increased from Rs. 24,899 to Rs. 28,883 by the re-valuation of the district.

There were six meetings held during the year for transacting business, and all were presided over by the Chairman. The attendance of the members of the Committee was not satisfactory, but some of them have given much assistance in superintending the repairs of roads in their respective neighbourhoods.

All the existing trees on roads were properly taken care of, and a few that had been destroyed by fire were replaced during the year.

There are 93 roads in the district, aggregating 572 miles in length. Of these about 386 miles are under the personal supervision of the District Engineer, and the rest are kept in repair by local zemindars, planters, &c.

The several establishments under the Committee generally worked fairly well throughout the year.

W. M. SMITH,

for Deputy Commissioner, Sonthal Pergunnahs.

No. 440 P.W., dated Bhagulpore, the 24th March 1884.

From—G. N. BARLOW, Esq., Commissioner of the Bhagulpore Division and Sonthal Pergunnahs,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit the annual accounts and reports of road cess operations for the cess year 1882-83 from all districts in this division.

2. The report from the Monghyr district was not received until the 27th of February 1884, and for this reason the submission of my report has been delayed. The reports and accounts from other districts were received in good time.

3. Receipts.—The percentage of collections in the five districts was as follows:—

Monghyr	87·0 per cent.
Bhagulpore	95·7 „
Purneah	101·74 „	(The increase is owing to arrears and advance collection).
Maldah	97·4 „
Sonthal Pergunnahs ...	No road cess in this district.

The Chairman, District Road Committee, Monghyr, states the reasons of the falling off in percentage of collections during the year.

In Monghyr, Bhagulpore, and Maldah re-valuation has increased considerably the road cess demand.

4. The Chairmen of the three most important districts—Monghyr, Bhagulpore, and Purneah—report most favourably on the state of the roads in their districts, and in the great improvement which is yearly taking place.

In Maldah the income is small, and there are many difficulties in the way of getting work done, but even here, old main roads are again being brought into order, and a number of surface roads maintained, where, but a few years ago, there were none.

The Act is reported to work well and be appreciated, and there can be no doubt of the very great improvement which has been (and is being) effected in the general communications of these districts during the last few years since the system has gradually settled down into practical working order. In all new works, masonry bridges are taking the place of timber structures, or, where these latter are still necessary, they are put up in a more permanent form The miserable structures on old bridged roads are being quickly replaced by better ones. The result is now beginning to be apparent in the lessening of the annual amounts required for repairs, and each year will bring an improvement in this respect, and I consider it not too much to say that with the present system kept in good working order for a few years more, these districts will be supplied with the necessary communications throughout; that the funds will be ample to keep them in proper order, and to allow of such new works as will necessarily be, from time to time, required, being constructed without further help from the Local Government. Such will each year tend, more and more, to show the cess-payers that they are gaining some real, useful, and practical advantage from what they pay.

A number of surveys were carried out during the year, and many important projects submitted, some of which had been unsettled for years, notably the embanked Tirhoot road in north Monghyr and the main northern road in the Bhagulpore district to Muddehpura.

In the Sonthal Pergunnahs, there being no road cess or Committee, the Deputy Commissioner confines his report to a brief statement of work done, but this district is no exception to the rule, and under his immediate energetic supervision the main roads are being completed, minor roads opened out, and nearly all maintained in first rate order, being mostly drivable throughout.

5. The number of members of each District Committee and the average attendance is given below:—

NAME OF DISTRICT.	Number of meetings.	Number of members.	Average number attending each meeting.	Numbers who did not attend any meeting.
Monghyr	6	18	5½	8
Bhagulpore	8	17	6	4
Purneah	8	13	6·12	2
Maldah	6	20	6	9

The number of meetings held at Monghyr and Maldah is insufficient for the Committees to have exercised much real control over the work, while the number of members who did not attend any meeting is large, and shows that many members have been selected who take no interest in the road cess work. I think that, if Committees are to exercise any real control over work, that meetings should be held not less than once every month, and this, if possible, on a stated day in each month, so that members living at a distance can make their arrangements for attending in time.

In Purneah the Committee are reported to have worked satisfactorily, and, in Bhagulpore, to have taken much interest in the work. The services of the Vice-Chairman, Rai Shib Chundra Banerjee, Bahadoor, are specially noted.

6. Branch Committees.—In Monghyr, the members of the Begooserai Sub-Committee are reported to have been regular in their attendance, and to have given much assistance in carrying out and supervising most of the work in the sub-division. In Jamui the attendance was unsatisfactory, and but a few members appear to take any interest whatever in the work.

In Bhagalpore, the Branch Committees are reported to have worked well. The attendance was good. The services of the Vice-Chairmen of the Sudder and Supul Branch Committees, Baboo Sri Mohun Thakoor and Syud Ghulam Maula, are specially noticed.

In Purneah, the attendance of the Branch Committees has been fair, and they appear to have worked satisfactorily.

There are no Branch Committees in Maldah.

ORIGINAL WORKS.

7. Monghyr.—The principal work has been—the completion of the bridging on the Secundra to Sheikpura road No. 15 (not yet fully done), and that on the Ramghur and Sheikpura road No. 17 (completed); making a new diversion on the road from Luckeeserai to Jamui, at a place where the Keal river was breaching the old road; and constructing a diversion road round the large bazar and village of Burhea on the Patna road No. 13: the line through the bazar for over two miles being nearly impassable, 325 r.ft. masonry bridges were completed, and 600 r. ft. temporary structures were restored.

All roads in the district were thoroughly repaired early in the season, and many old culverts and bridges dismantled and properly restored.

8. Bhagulpore.—The principal works have been—the re-construction of timber bridges on the road from Bhagulpore to Umerpore at a cost of Rs. ,600, the completion of the masonry bridges on the Sonbursa and Muddehpura road on the north, and the construction of a large timber bridge over the Telabee (where the Monghyr district is met) at a cost of Rs. 7,000. The masonry bridges on the short road from Milki to Sonbursa were commenced and completed during the year.

All the roads in the list have been kept in good order and repair, and, in the north, many temporary bridges replaced by better structures. A saving of Rs. 5,000 was effected on the total estimate for repairs, which was satisfactory.

Thirty-two roadside wells have been constructed for the use of passengers, four inspection bungalows have been built, 149 r.ft. of new bridging was completed, and 704 r.ft. of timber bridging restored during the year.

9. Purneah.—The chief work in this district was the bridging of roads Nos. 6 and 7, Raneegunge to Barsoee, and Bassantpore to Raneegunge. In road No. 6, 330 r.ft. of timber bridging was completed. In road No. 7, 370 r.ft. of ditto ditto, the work being of a substantial character. A great deal of work was also done in road No. 1, from Purneah to Barsoe, in raising the road above flood level and filling in breaches. Many other roads were raised, straightened, or improved.

The roads of the district were kept in good repair, and much attention was paid to giving them a proper section. Before they were nearly all, more or less, hollow at the centre. They have now nearly all a proper rounded surface which throws off the rain-water.

10. Maldah.—No new works of any importance have been carried out, and until the old main lines of road which have been allowed to fall into entire disrepair have been restored it is not advisable to commence any. Grants-in-aid were given for:—

1.	The Gadagari and Dinagepur road	...	...	No. 10.
2.	Nawabgunge to Jhelum „	...	...	„ 39.
3.	Mukrampore to Parbuttypore „	...	...	„ 42.

These lie to the east of the district, carry very heavy and important traffic, but had been entirely neglected for years. Most of the bridges and bank of the first have been restored. The second has been completed and put in good order. A good deal of work has been done on the third, including four timber bridges, but the work is not completed.

On the old main road from Rajmahal to Dinagepore some work has been done between Rajmahal and Maldah, but from (old) Maldah north the road has been neglected. No work has been done on this for years. A large grant has been made for the purpose of restoring this road during the next cess year. The other roads in the district do not carry heavy traffic. The usual repairs have been executed throughout. Much of the repair work of this district is done by Messrs. Reilly, Hennessy, Walton, and Saupin; Mr. Reilly alone having 124 miles of road under his charge. The north-west of the district has been much opened out and communications improved by him.

Most of the navigable rivers have been brought into the road cess list, and it is hoped that next cess year something may be done in the way of removing snags and cutting through shallow bars.

11. Sonthal Pergunnahs.—Two masonry bridges were built on road No. 4, Dumka to Murraroee Railway Station. These streams were difficult to cross, and the bridges are most useful here. The roads in the district have been kept generally in good repair, and the main roads are in excellent order. During the close of the year all roads before under the Public Works Department were taken over as district roads. Several projects are in hand for completing the bridging of the main existing roads, for which a grant-in-aid has been given by Government.

12. Village roads.—These have been repaired and considerable improvements effected in Monghyr and Bhagulpore. In Purneah most, but not all, have been maintained in good order. In Maldah, village roads are included in the list of district roads. In the Sonthal Pergunnahs, the three village roads have been repaired. Below is given expenditure on purely village roads :—
